CHICAGO, November 6, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

GENTLEMEN—I return herewith, without my approval, an ordinance passed by Your Honorable Body purporting to authorize and direct the Mayor and the City Clerk to execute on behalf of the City of Chicago an instrument of conveyance conveying to the Irving Park District all the right, title and interest of the City of Chicago in certain real estate, which is Water Fund property, the title to which is in the City of Chicago.

I withhold my approval of the said ordinance upon the recommendation of the Law Department.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

Annexation of a Portion of the Village of River Grove to the City of Chicago.

The City Clerk presented the following communication:

Department of Law,
Chicago, November 12, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—On October 24, 1929, your honorable body passed an ordinance annexing a portion of the Village of River Grove. (See Council Journal, pp. 1307-8.)

This ordinance contains a reference to a plat said to be attached thereto marked "Exhibit A". It appears that no plat was attached to the ordinance, and on further consideration we deem it advisable that there should be no plat attached.

Our reason for this is that the statute governing such annexation requires that an accurate map of the territory to be annexed shall be certified by the Mayor and filed by the City Clerk in the office of the Recorder of Deeds. The statute also requires the recording of a certified copy of the ordinance. Such being the case, there would be a duplication, and in case the two plats should happen to vary in some slight particular complications might arise and perhaps a question as to which is the authentic plat.

We therefore recommend that the ordinance be repassed by your honorable body without the reference to the plat. For your convenience we have prepared a new draft of same and submit it herewith.

Yours truly,

(Signed) LEON HORNSTEIN,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Approved:

(Signed) SAMUEL A. ETTELSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Unanimous consent was given to permit action on the ordinance submitted with the foregoing communication without reference thereof to a committee.

Alderman J. B. Bowler moved to amend said ordinance by striking out the word and figure "Section 4", and by inserting in lieu thereof the word and figure "Section 5"; also by inserting therein the following:

"SECTION 4. That an ordinance heretofore passed by this Council on October 24, 1929, providing for the annexation of the territory described above, be and the same is hereby repealed."

The motion prevailed.

Alderman J. B. Bowler moved to pass said ordinance as amended.

The motion prevailed, by yeas and nays as follows:

Yeas—Coughlin, Anderson, Jackson, Cronson, Eaton, Guernsey, Nance, Meyering, Govier, Rowan, Wilson, Zintak, McDonough, O'Toole, Byrne, Coyle, Morris, Northrup, Pacelli, D. A. Direction That Suit Be Brought Against the City Comptroller to Compel the Issuance of Water Certificates.

The City Clerk presented the following communication:

DEPARTMENT OF LAW,
CHICAGO, November 12, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

GENTLEMEN—We are informed that the Comptroller has refused to sign or issue any bonds or certificates payable out of the Water Fund for the purpose of financing the improvements which your honorable body authorized and for which it provided for payment from the proceeds of such bonds by ordinance passed on July 10, 1929 (Council Journal, pp. 709-710). The Comptroller gives as the reason for his refusal his doubt as to the validity of such obligations, saying that he fears he will make himself liable if he proceeds as directed by the said ordinance.

It is highly desirable that the validity of such bonds or certificates, and the validity of the statute recently passed by the General Assembly authorizing the issuance of such obligations, should be passed on by the Supreme Court.

The most expeditious way of securing a ruling from the Supreme Court on these points is by an original petition for mandamus in that court, provided the court will take jurisdiction, which we hope to persuade the court to do. The action would necessarily have to be against the City Comptroller, however, and we do not want to bring an action of this kind against the head of a city department without a direct order from the City Council so to do.

In case it is the desire of your honorable body that such suit should be brought, such desire should be expressed by ordinance or order directing the Corporation Counsel to bring the suit in the name of the City. We send herewith draft of such form of order, which will answer the purpose if you regard it with favor.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Leon Hornstein,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Approved:

(Signed) Samuel A. Ettelson,
Corporation Counsel.

Unanimous consent was given to permit action on the order submitted with the foregoing communication without reference thereof to a committee.

Alderman Cronson moved to pass said order.

The motion prevailed, by yeas and nays as follows:

Yeas—Coughlin, Anderson, Jackson, Cronson, Eaton, Guernsey, Nance, Meyering, Govier, Rowan, Wilson, Zintak, McDonough, O'Toole, Byrne, Coyle, Morris, Northrup, Pacelli, D. A. Horan, Cepak, Toman, Arvey, J. B. Bowler, Sloan, Maypole, A. J. Horan, Konkowski, Smith, Rozczynialski, Kaindl, Seif, Nusser, Taylor, Landmesser, Ringa, Ross, T. J. Bowler, Crowe, Albert, Loescher, Feigenbutz, Nelson, Hoellen, Massen, Frankhauser, Mellin—47.

Nays—None.

The following is said order as passed:

Whereas, The City Comptroller has refused to issue the water certificates authorized by the ordinance of the City Council passed on July 10, 1929, appearing on pages 709 and 710 of the Journal of the Proceedings of the City Council of that date, alleging as his reason the question as to the validity of said ordinance and the statute in pursuance of which it was passed; and

Whereas, The most expeditious way of securing a ruling of the Supreme Court of Illinois on these points will be by bringing an original petition for mandamus to compel the Comptroller to act; therefore,

Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be and he is hereby directed to bring suit against the City Comptroller for the purpose of compelling him to issue water certificates in accordance with the directions of the City Council as contained in an ordinance passed on July 10, 1929, and appearing on pages 709 and 710 of the Journal of the Proceedings of the City Council of that date; such suit to be brought in the form of an original petition for mandamus before the Supreme Court of Illinois, or by such other form of procedure as may be determined by the Corporation Counsel.

Amendment of Regulations for the Selection of City Depositaries.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was, together with the ordinance transmitted therewith, referred to the Committee on Finance:

Department of Law,
Chicago, November 19, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—The ordinances under which depositaries of City funds are selected, and the regulations controlling them, were adopted originally in 1905 and were last amended in 1916. Since then conditions have materially changed in this city, both with respect to the character and size of the institutions named as depositaries and with respect to the amount and character of the deposits. Incidentally, we point to the passage of the School Law in 1917 which has some bearing on the matter.

During the current year some difficulties arose because the ordinance above mentioned no longer fit the conditions of the present day. In order to obviate these difficulties, and to afford better protection to the City Treasurer, we recommend that Sections 28, 32 and 33 of The Chicago Municipal Code of 1922 be amended to meet the situation.

We have prepared, and we submit herewith for the consideration of your honorable body, draft of an ordinance amending these three sections, which we suggest ought to be acted upon before bids for the coming year are solicited.

Yours very truly,

Assistant Corporation Counsel.

The concrete for the said concrete foundation shall be made by mixing by volume one (1) part of said Portland cement, two and one-half (2½) parts of said sand or two and one-half (2½) parts of said slag or limestone screenings and five (5) parts of said slag, limestone, or other stone together with a proper amount of clean water in a rotary batch mixer until the resulting concrete has been thoroughly mixed. The said concrete shall then be spread upon the surface of the roadbed prepared as herein prescribed and rammed until thoroughly compacted. The upper surface of said concrete foundation shall be parallel with and three and one-half (3½) inches below the upper surface of the finished pavement.

A binder course two (2) inches thick shall be laid upon said concrete foundation.

A wearing course one and one-half (1½) inches thick shall be laid upon said binder course.

The sand or limestone screenings used in making the mixture for the binder course and the sand used in making the mixture for the wearing course shall be clean, hard-grained, free from foreign matter, and so graded that all of said sand or limestone screenings can pass a four (4) mesh sieve and so that not more than six (6) per cent can be held on a ten (10) mesh sieve and so that not less than eight (8) per cent nor more than twenty-five (25) per cent can pass a ten (10) mesh sieve and be held on a forty (40) mesh sieve, and so that not less than thirty (30) per cent nor more than fifty-six (56) per cent can pass a forty (40) mesh sieve and be held on an eighty (80) mesh sieve, and so that not less than twenty (20) per cent nor more than forty-five (45) per cent can pass an eighty (80) mesh sieve.

Levigated stone shall be construed to mean, for the purpose of this ordinance, levigated limestone, other levigated stone equivalent to levigated limestone for paving purposes, Portland cement or the finely divided mineral matter self contained in the refined native solid asphalt.

The refined asphalt used in making the asphalt cement for the mixture for the binder course and the mixture for the wearing course shall be obtained from crude, native solid asphalt, except as herein provided. If crude, native solid asphalt is used and requires refining, it shall be heated to a temperature of not over four hundred fifty (450) degrees Fahrenheit until all water and light oils have been driven off. At least ninety-eight and one-half (98½) per cent of the bitumen contained in the said refined asphalt which is soluble in carbon disulphide shall be soluble in cold carbon tetra chloride.

The refined asphalt used in making said asphalt cement may also be obtained by the straight reduction of asphaltic petroleum until the refined asphalt has a consistency not softer than seven (7) millimeters penetration and not harder than two and one-half (2½) millimeters penetration, the penetration being made with a No. 2 Needle, weighted with one hundred (100) grams acting for five (5) seconds on the material at a temperature of seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit. Ninety-eight and one-half (98½) per cent of the said refined asphalt, so obtained, shall be soluble in cold carbon tetra chloride. When fifty (50) grams of said refined asphalt is heated in an uncovered tin box five and one-half (5½) centimeters in diameter and three and one-half (3½) centimeters in depth and is held at a temperature of three hundred twenty-five (325) degrees Fahrenheit for five (5) hours, then it shall have lost not over two (2) per cent by weight and the penetration of the residue thus obtained shall be not less than one-half (½) of the penetration before such heating, said penetration being determined as herein prescribed. The said refined asphalt shall have a ductility of not less than sixty (60) centimeters at five (5) millimeters penetration determined as herein prescribed, said ductility being determined by elongating a briquette, Dow form, of said refined asphalt at a uniform rate of five (5) centimeters per minute at a temperature of seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit.

The flux used in making the asphalt cement shall be the residuum obtained by the straight reduction of crude petroleum, which flux shall be tested with and found suitable to the refined asphalt to be used. At least ninety-nine (99) per cent of said flux shall be soluble in cold carbon tetra chloride. The flux shall have a specific gravity of not less than ninety-four one-hundredths (.94) and not more than one and ten one-hundredths (1.10) at seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit as compared with water at seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit, and when tested in a Cleveland Open Cup Oil Tester, it shall not flash below a temperature of three hundred eighty (380) degrees Fahrenheit; and when fifty (50) grams of the said flux is heated in an uncovered tin box five and one-half (5½) centimeters in diameter and three and one-half (3½) centimeters in depth and is held at a temperature of three hundred twenty-five (325) degrees Fahrenheit for five (5) hours, then it shall not have lost over three (3) per cent by weight. The flux shall have a penetration of not less than thirty-five (35) millimeters, the penetration being made with a No. 2 needle weighted with fifty (50) grams acting for one (1) second, the material being tested at seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit.

The asphalt cement used in the binder course and in the wearing course shall be made from one (1) of said refined asphalts or from a mixture of any two (2) of said refined asphalts and said flux, if flux must be used, provided that the mixture of refined asphalts shall contain equal parts of each of the refined asphalts, and that the said asphalt cement shall contain not less than sixty (60) per cent by weight of refined asphalt or asphalts. The said asphalt cement shall be made by mixing and heating the said refined asphalt or asphalts and the said flux in a kettle at a temperature not lower than two hundred fifty (250) degrees Fahrenheit and not higher than three hundred fifty (350) degrees Fahrenheit. This mixture shall be thoroughly agitated when hot by steam, air or mechanical means until the said mixture has become homogeneous. The said asphalt cement shall have a penetration, determined as herein prescribed, of not less than two and one-half (2½) millimeters and not more than seven (7) millimeters. When fifty (50) grams of said asphalt cement is heated in an uncovered tin box five and one-half (5½) centimeters in diameter and three and one-half (3½) centimeters in depth and is held at a temperature of three hundred twenty-five (325) degrees Fahrenheit for five (5) hours, then it shall have lost not more than three (3) per cent by weight, and the penetration.

determined as herein prescribed, shall be not less than one-half (½) of the penetration before such heating. A briquette, Dow form, of the said asphalt cement of the consistency as used in this improvement shall have a ductility, determined as herein prescribed, of not less than twenty (20) centimeters.

The mixture for the binder course shall be made by heating and intimately mixing the said limestone, or other stone, the said sand or the said limestone screenings and the said asphalt cement. The said mixture shall contain by weight five (5) per cent of bitumen soluble in carbon disulphide; twenty-five (25) per cent of said sand or said limestone screenings and seventy (70) per cent of said limestone, or other stone. The said mixture shall be spread on the said concrete foundation, and while in a hot and plastic condition shall be rolled to an even surface with a self-propelled roller weighing not less than ten (10) tons. The said binder course after ultimate compression shall have a thickness of two (2) inches, and the upper surface shall be parallel with and one and one-half (1½) inches below the upper surface of the finished pavement.

The mixture for the wearing course shall be made by intimately mixing, while hot, the said sand, the said asphalt cement and the said levigated stone. The said sand and the said asphalt cement shall be heated separately to a temperature of not less than three hundred (300) degrees Fahrenheit, and the said levigated stone shall be intimately mixed with the said sand and then both shall be intimately mixed with the said asphalt cement. The said mixture shall contain, by weight, bitumen soluble in carbon disulphide, eleven (11) per cent; said levigated stone fourteen (14) per cent; said sand which can pass an eighty (80) mesh sieve and cannot pass a two hundred (200) mesh sieve twenty-five (25) per cent; said sand which can pass a forty (40) mesh sieve and cannot pass an eighty (80) mesh sieve, thirty-six (36) per cent; said sand which can pass a ten (10) mesh sieve and cannot pass a forty (40) mesh sieve, twelve (12) per cent; said sand which can pass a four (4) mesh sieve and cannot pass a ten (10) mesh sieve, two (2) per cent. The said mixture shall be spread at a temperature of not less than two hundred sixty (260) degrees Fahrenheit to an even surface and to such a depth that after ultimate compression, it shall have a thickness of one and one-half (1½) inches. The wearing course, while still hot and plastic, shall be rolled with a self-propelled roller weighing not less than ten (10) tons. Natural hydraulic cement shall then be spread over the wearing course in such quantity that one (1) barrel of natural hydraulic cement shall cover one thousand (1000) square yards of said wearing course. The said wearing course shall then be thoroughly compressed by rolling with a self-propelled roller weighing not less than ten (10) tons.

Said work to be done in a workmanlike manner under the superintendence of the Board of Local Improvements of the said City of Chicago.

SECTION 2. That the recommendation of the Board of Local Improvements of the City of Chicago, providing for said improvement, together with the estimate of the cost thereof, including the lawful expenses attending the same, made by the engineer of said Board both hereto attached, be and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION 3. That said improvement shall be made and the cost thereof, including the lawful expenses attending the same, be paid by special assessment in accordance with an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled, "An Act Concerning Local Improvements", approved June 14th, A. D. 1897, and the amendments thereto, and that of said special assessment the sum of nine thousand nine hundred forty-nine and forty one-hundredths dollars ($9,949.40), not exceeding five (5) per centum of the amount of said assessment as finally determined after the completion of said improvement in accordance with Section 84 of said Act, shall be applied toward the payment of the cost of making, levying and collecting said special assessment, and of letting and executing contracts, advertising, clerical hire, engineering and inspection, court costs and deficiency in interest in the matter of said special assessment, in accordance with the provisions of said Act.

SECTION 4. That the aggregate amount herein ordered to be assessed against the property, and also the assessment on each lot and parcel of land therein assessed shall be divided into five (5) installments in the manner provided by the statute in such cases made and provided, and each of said installments shall bear interest at the rate of five (5) per centum per annum according to law until paid.

SECTION 5. That for the purpose of anticipating the collection of the second and succeeding installments of said assessment for said improvement, (excepting such part, if any, that is chargeable to the City of Chicago for public benefits or benefits to public land), bonds shall be issued payable out of said installments bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per centum per annum, payable annually, and signed by the Mayor and by the President of the Board of Local Improvements, countersigned by the City Comptroller and attested by the City Clerk under the corporate seal of the City of Chicago. Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with and shall in all respects conform to the provision of the Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled, "An Act Concerning Local Improvements", approved June 14th, A. D. 1897, and the amendments thereto.

SECTION 6. That the Corporation Counsel be and he is hereby directed to file a petition in the Circuit, Superior or County Court of Cook County, Illinois, in the name of the City of Chicago, praying that steps may be taken to levy a special assessment for said improvement in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance and in the manner prescribed by law.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

Presentation of Facts in the Chicago Rapid Transit Company Litigation Regarding a Ten-cent Fare Pending in the United States District Court.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was, together with the pamphlet transmitted therewith, ordered published and referred to the Committee on Local Transportation:

I

DEPARTMENT OF LAW,
CHICAGO, November 27, 1929.

To the Honorable the City Council of the City of Chicago:

GENTLEMEN—The Corporation Counsel herewith submits a pamphlet regarding the litigation of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company (Elevated Lines) to obtain and maintain a ten cent fare.

The case is now pending before Special Master Roswell B. Mason, duly appointed by the United States District Court, and evidence has been introduced in behalf of the Company. No evidence has been presented in behalf of the city due to lack of funds for that purpose. Proofs were heretofore ordered closed and the case set to be argued on November 20th last. At the request of the City a continuance was granted to December 20th next, on account of the withdrawal from the case of Congressman Frank R. Reid, Special Assistant Corporation Counsel, who has been actively in charge of this litigation.

In order to controvert the claims of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company and make possible a victory for the people, additional funds will be needed and should be provided.

If the City Council votes money to enable us to present evidence, we will make application to the Special Master to reopen the case. In the event our motion to reopen the case is denied by the Special Master, we shall present the evidence to the court.

If your Honorable Body votes an adequate appropriation, the Corporation Counsel will be able to continue the fight for the rights of the people.

In the event that an appropriation is made no vouchers will be paid without being jointly approved by Alderman Joseph B. McDonough, Chairman of the Committee on Local Transportation, and by the Corporation Counsel.

If your Honorable Body does not vote an appropriation, the case may go against the City practically by default.

Many millions of dollars in increased fares are involved in this litigation and the interests of the people are, therefore, vitally concerned. The Corporation Counsel feels that he would not be doing his full official duty if he omitted at this time to make this situation entirely plain and clear to the members of the City Council.

In the event of your refusal to provide funds, the Corporation Counsel requests that your Honorable Body forthwith instruct him as to what the City Council desires the Corporation Counsel to do in the further conduct of this litigation.

A vote against this appropriation is a vote in the interest of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company and against the interest of the people.

Respectfully yours,

(Signed) SAMUEL A. ETTELSON,
Corporation Counsel.

II

CONDENSED HISTORY OF THE LITIGATION OF THE CHICAGO RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY TO MAINTAIN A TEN CENT FARE

The following is a brief history of the litigation of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company in its effort to maintain a ten cent fare:

On February 14, 1928, the Chicago Rapid Transit Company applied to the Illinois Commerce Commission for an increased rate of ten cents in lieu of the then prevailing rate of three rides for twenty-five cents and also asked for the abolishment of certain passes. On hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission that body denied the application for such an increased fare and by its order continued the old rate of three rides for twenty-five cents.

At the hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission the evidence by the attorneys for the Chicago Rapid Transit Company consisted of an old valuation of its properties made in 1921, together with valuations of additions made since that time. At the close of the company's case, the City's lawyers raised the point that this evidence was insufficient to authorize a present increase of fares and cited legal authorities to support this contention. The Commission held that this contention of the City's was well-founded and entered an order denying an increase of fares and fixing the old fare of three rides for twenty-five cents as a reasonable rate of fare.

The Chicago Rapid Transit Company then filed a bill of complaint in the United States District Court to enjoin the enforcement of the order, claiming that such a rate would be confiscatory and in violation of the 14th amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The United States District Court then issued a temporary injunction restraining the enforcement of the order of the Illinois Commerce Commission and permitted the charging of a ten cent fare, and referred the entire matter to Special Master Roswell B. Mason to take evidence and report to the court.

The City of Chicago was not made a defendant, but secured permission from the federal court to intervene in order to protect the car riders of the City of Chicago and to prevent the continuance of the ten cent fare.

In June, 1929, the Chicago Rapid Transit Company completed its introduction of evidence before the Master in Chancery including engineers' appraisals of its property. One appraisal was submitted by James Walker, Consulting Engineer, showing the total value of the company's properties as $146,155,175.00, and another by Sanderson & Porter appraising the properties at $160,038,298.00.

In order to controvert the evidence of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company the City must be prepared to show its valuation of the properties. To obtain this evidence it is necessary to employ expert legal counsel, engineers and real estate appraisers in preparation of the defense to the claims made by the Chicago Rapid Transit Company.

While in fact the Illinois Commerce Commerce Commission is responsible to the car riders because the action was initiated against the commission, the entire burden of the case has fallen solely on the City of Chicago.

If the City is victorious, this litigation will save the patrons of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company many millions of dollars.

From the very beginning it was evident to counsel representing the City of Chicago that the attitude of the Illinois Commerce Commission was one of indifference in the defense of this case before the United States District Court. Considerable data and information as to the value of the properties of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company and its receipts and expenditures, which were requested by the City's representatives, could not be obtained, the Illinois Commerce Commission claiming that some had been lost and that the furnishing of the data and information requested would involve a great amount of work far beyond the capacity of their clerical and expert staff.

Being hampered by lack of sufficient appropriation the entire burden of the defense has fallen upon the City's legal representatives who have had to do the work of engineers and accountants as well as lawyers. Hundreds of documents were examined. By cross-examination of the company's witnesses sufficient evidence was developed to warrant further investigation of the company's books and records.

LETTER SUBMITTED BY SPECIAL ASSISTANT CORPORATION COUNSEL FRANK R. REID AND EDWARD C. HIGGINS

CHICAGO, March 14, 1929.

Hon. Samuel A. Ettelson, Corporation Counsel, Chicago, Illinois:

SIR—I beg to advise that on yesterday at the hearing before the Master in Chancery in the elevated rate case, counsel for the Chicago Rapid Transit Company stated that they expected to have their engineers' appraisal of the Company's properties ready for introduction into evidence about April 1st, and that the present value of the properties is considerable more than $139,000,000.00.

If the City of Chicago is to present its case properly, it will be necessary for it to have engineers and real estate appraisers make a valuation of the properties of the elevated company to offset the claims of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company, and also to have accountants prepare the necessary data, summaries, and exhibits, showing particularly the actual money invested in the properties. Additional attorneys should also be employed in order that the City's evidence may be analyzed and properly presented if the case is to be expedited.

My attention has been called to a statement in the press attributed to a member of the Illinois Commerce Commission to the effect that the engineering staff of the Commission would be glad to undertake an appraisal of the Company's properties, if requested by the City of Chicago.

It is the duty of the Illinois Commerce Commission to defend this suit, to make an appraisal of the Company's properties, and such accounting investigations as may be necessary. This burden has fallen on the City of Chicago only because it has been evident that the Commission did not intend to do so.

As you know the Illinois Commerce Commission is the original defendant in the present case, and is more responsible in this matter to the car riders than is the City of Chicago, the suit having been brought against the members of the Commission, the Governor, and the Attorney General. The City of Chicago was not joined as a defendant, but secured permission of the Federal Court to intervene to try to protect the car riders and prevent the continuance of the 10c fare.

However, the Commission has taken practically no part in the defense of the case. An Assistant Attorney General has appeared at only a few of the hearings before the Master when the taking of testimony began, and stated that he was not able to secure the full co-operation of the Commission in this case.

The burden of the defense has been entirely upon the City's counsel, who have had to do the work of engineers and accountants, as well as of lawyers. We have examined hundreds of documents and extracts from the books and records of the Company, and by cross-examination of the Company's witnesses have developed sufficient facts to warrant a further investigation of its books and records. For example, we have brought out the following points, among others:

1. The millions of passengers per year are carried by the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin Railroad and the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad, all of whom are entitled to ride free on the lines of the Chicago Rapid Transit Co.
2. That the Company's advertising privileges are "farmed out" to another company, which makes the profit on it instead of the elevated company using that profit for the benefit of the car riders.
3. That the Company has piled up a depreciation fund of over two million dollars with money furnished by the car riders, and now wants to increase that amount.
4. That the Niles Center extension is operated at a loss of over $225,000.00 a year, at the expense of the car riders of Chicago.
5. That the Company wants the car riders to furnish it nearly a million dollars a year additional to "dress up" its properties, which its General Manager testified is not needed for efficiency or safety.

The Company holds that in this suit it is entitled to a 10c fare because the order of the Illinois Commerce Commission stated that the evidence in the case showed that the value of the Company's properties would not be less than $92,588,105.72, and relies on the further statement by the Commission that > "It is unquestionably true that the Company is not receiving the full return on its investment, which the courts have decided is a reasonable return."

The Company further holds that the City cannot question the contracts between the Company and the other utility companies under a common ownership, management and control, because those contracts were approved by the Commission.

In the case before the Commission out of which the present suit arose, no appraisal of the Company's properties was made by the Commission, its findings being based upon valuations, etc., in a prior case before it decided in 1921, with additional properties brought down to the date of decision.

Counsel for the City of Chicago during the present case have endeavored to secure the active assistance and co-operation of the Illinois Commerce Commission, but the assistance rendered has been of no practical help. Shortly after the hearings before the Master were commenced, a conference was had between counsel for the City and the Chairman, the Chief Accountant, and the Chief Engineer of the Commission, an Assistant Attorney General, and several employes of the Commission, at which time we submitted a list of about 46 questions which we requested the Commission to have answered. Answers to some of these questions were subsequently furnished, but were so meager and indefinite as to furnish no substantial assistance whatever, as will be seen from the copies attached hereto. Some of the data requested have not yet been supplied.

On September 4, 1928, a letter was addressed to the Chairman of the Commission requesting that the following material be made available for study and use by counsel for the City of Chicago:

1. The exhibits and briefs filed in Case No. 8530 before the Public Utilities Commission by the Companies, the City of Chicago, the neighboring cities, and the Commission.
2. The exhibits filed in Case No. 10850 before the Illinois Commerce Commission by the Company, and the exhibits prepared by the Commission in that case but not made a part of the record.
3. A transcript of the testimony taken and oral arguments made in Case No. 10850.
4. The annual reports filed with the Commission by the Chicago Rapid Transit Company for the years 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927.
5. All of the annual reports filed by the four constituent companies of the present Company.

In answer to this request we were informed that the exhibits, etc., in Case No. 8530, decided in 1921, had been mislaid in the files in Springfield and could not be located, except two or three which were furnished. We were further informed that the studies made by the Commission in Case No. 10850, the recent case, not made a part of the record, were considered confidential and could not be disclosed, and that the annual reports of the Companies could not be removed from the Commission's office, but might be examined there.

Subsequently, the Commission's own counsel, an Assistant Attorney General, who was supposed to be representing it in this case, requested the same material from the Commission, and received the same reply.

On September 25, 1928, a letter was addressed to the Chairman of the Commission requesting that counsel for the City of Chicago be furnished certain data and information relative to the operation of the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railway Company and the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin Railway Company over the right of way of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company. To this request the Commission replied that it was unable from the information on file with it to furnish the data requested.

On October 9, 1928, a letter was addressed to the Secretary of the Commission requesting that the accountants of the Commission procure the information desired from the books and records of the two companies, to which the Secretary replied on October 10, 1928, as follows:

"Hon. Edward C. Higgins,
"Assistant Corporation Counsel, City of Chicago,
"511 City Hall,
"Chicago, Ill.:

"Dear Sir—Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of October 9th, requesting that the Commission have its accountants examine the books and records of the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad and the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin Railroad for the purpose of furnishing to you certain details with respect to the origin and destination of passenger, freight and miscellaneous traffic.

"Your request will be given consideration by the Commission and no doubt such action will be taken as is within legal limitations of the Commission's power and consistent with the discharge of business before the Commission. For your information, however, I may say that the Commission's staff of accountants have much work ahead of them on uncompleted assignments in connection with important matters now pending before the Commission which will have to be completed before new assignments are made.

"The preparation of the data requested by you will involve a long and tedious investigation and with the limited force at our command will consume a considerable time. It is the desire of the Commission to co-operate with you in this matter in every reasonable way consistent with the Commission's powers and duties and the facilities at its command.

"Yours very truly,

(Signed) "Julius Johnson,
"Secretary."

Nothing further has been heard from the Commission, and the data requested have not yet been furnished.

It will be seen from the above that the Commission is either unable or unwilling to furnish any effective assistance in this case, and in view of the position taken by it in its order, as quoted above, I do not believe the City of Chicago should rely upon the Commission to win this suit.

Of course you realize that if no evidence is introduced on behalf of the City, the Company's valuation of its properties might be accepted by the Master and the Federal Court, and the Company might have a foundation to charge a ten cent fare or even more.

Respectfully yours,

(Signed) Frank R. Reid,
Special Assistant Corporation Counsel.

LETTER OF ACTING CORPORATION COUNSEL JAMES W. BREEN

Chicago, March 18, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—I have been advised that at a hearing of the case of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company v. The Illinois Commerce Commission et al. on March 13, 1929, the counsel for the Chicago Rapid Transit Company stated that they expected to have their engineers' appraisal of the Company's properties ready for introduction in evidence about April 1, 1929, and I am also advised that the counsel for the Chicago Rapid Transit Company claim that the evidence that they will present will fix the valuation of the properties of the said Chicago Rapid Transit Company considerably higher than $139,000,000.00.

It is my opinion that if the City of Chicago is to present its case properly it will be necessary for the City to have engineers and real estate appraisers make a valuation of the properties of the Elevated Companies in order to be in a position to offset the extravagant claims of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company, and also to have accountants prepare the necessary data, summaries and exhibits showing particularly the actual money invested in the properties.

As you well know, the Illinois Commerce Commission is the original defendant in the present case, the suit having been brought against the members of the Commission, the Governor and the Attorney General. The City of Chicago was not joined as a defendant, but secured permission of the Federal Court to intervene in order to protect the car riders and prevent the continuance of the 10 cent fare. I am informed, however, that the Illinois Commerce Commission has taken practically no part in the defense of the case, and that practically the entire burden of the defense has been upon the City's counsel, who have had to do the work of engineers and accountants as well as that of lawyers. They have examined hundreds of documents and extracts from the books and records, and by cross-examination of the Company's witnesses have developed sufficient facts to warrant a further investigation of its books and records.

In view of the importance of this litigation, I recommend that your Honorable Body appropriate a sufficient amount of money to enable us to employ engineers, real estate appraisers and accountants, and that such action be taken by your Honorable Body at the earliest date possible.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) James W. Breen,
Acting Corporation Counsel.

LETTER OF CORPORATION COUNSEL SAMUEL A. ETTELSON

Chicago, April 19, 1929.

Hon. Joseph B. McDonough, Chairman, Committee on Local Transportation:

Dear Sir—I am transmitting herewith a copy of a report which I received from Messrs. Edward C. Higgins and Frank Reid, Special Assistant Corporation Counsel in charge of the elevated rate case for the City of Chicago; also a copy of a letter from James W. Breen, Acting Corporation Counsel, to the Honorable, the City Council, dated March 18, 1929, appearing in the printed journal of the Council proceedings for March 30, 1929, on page 4854, left-hand column.

I wish again to call your attention to the necessity for prompt action on the part of both your committee and the finance committee to the end that an adequate appropriation is made to enable this department to conduct this litigation in the best possible manner for the people of the City of Chicago.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) Samuel A. Ettelson,
Corporation Counsel.

VI

LETTER SUBMITTED BY SPECIAL ASSISTANT CORPORATION COUNSEL FRANK R. REID

Chicago, June 10, 1929.

Hon. Samuel A. Ettelson, Corporation Counsel, City Hall, Chicago, Illinois:

Dear Sir—I beg to advise that at the hearing this morning before the Master in Chancery in the elevated rate case, the Chicago Rapid Transit Company completed the introduction into evidence of its engineers' appraisals of its properties.

These appraisals were made by James Walker, Consulting Engineer, of Chicago, and the firm of Sanderson and Porter of New York and Chicago, and show the reproduction cost new as of July 5, 1928, of the owned and leased properties of the elevated company, as follows:

By James Walker

Owned Property	$168,120,047
Depreciation	25,752,339	$142,367,708
Leased Property	$ 4,342,629
Depreciation	555,162	3,787,467
Total................		$146,155,175

By Sanderson & Porter

Owned Property	$162,841,035
Cost to Restore to First-Class Condition.	6,669,458	$156,171,577
Leased Property	$ 3,972,721
Cost to Restore to First-Class Condition.	106,000	3,866,721
Total..............		$160,038,298

The leased property referred to above as included in both appraisals is the property owned by the Chicago Junction Railroad Company and operated under lease by the Chicago Rapid Transit Company, known as the Kenwood and Stock Yards Branches of the South Side Division. The attorneys for the Company have announced that they will not include in the appraisal of the properties the leased lines on the North Side and Metropolitan Divisions.

At the hearing before the Master this afternoon, the Company introduced an exhibit prepared by Arthur Young & Company, Accountants and Auditors, showing the cost of the elevated company's properties to June 30, 1928, to be $96,210,534.17.

The Company's attorneys have stated that the next hearing, probably Wednesday or Thursday of this week, they expect to have ready for introduction an exhibit showing the Company's income account for the year August 1, 1928, to August 1, 1929 (actual and estimated), which will complete their case.

I must be able to advise the Master within the next few days as to the City's intention in regard to the introduction of evidence, and I shall appreciate it if you will advise me whether or not an appropriation is to be made available for the employment of engineers, real estate appraisers, accountants, etc., to prepare an appraisal of the properties of the elevated Company on behalf of the City. If this appropriation is not made, of course the case will be decided by the Master on the testimony offered on behalf of the Company only, and attacked only as to its correctness and sufficiency by the extended cross-examination which I have made of the Company's witnesses.

The Illinois Commerce Commission has taken no part in the defense of the case, and the matter is practically at default so far as the introduction of evidence is concerned on behalf of all the defendants except the City of Chicago, an intervenor.

It will be useless for the City of Chicago to rely upon the Commission for any assistance whatever in winning this suit, and if the City is to make any real and effective effort to save the car riders millions of dollars a year which they may be required to pay in higher fares, it could well afford the expenditure of the comparatively small amount which would be necessary to employ competent persons to prepare the City's evidence.

Respectfully yours,

(Signed) Frank R. Reid,
Special Assistant Corporation Counsel.

VII

LETTER OF CORPORATION COUNSEL SAMUEL A. ETTELSON

Chicago, July 9, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—This is formally to notify you that Special Master Roswell B. Mason, in the case of Chicago Rapid Transit Company vs. Moynihan et al. (the Elevated Fare Case), in which the City of Chicago is an intervening defendant, on Monday, July 8, 1929, entered a rule upon all defendants to close their proofs within ten days and continued the case for further hearing to Tuesday, July 16, 1929, a copy of which order is attached hereto.

It, therefore, will be necessary for the City of Chicago to place in evidence at that time an appraisal of the property of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company and evidence of expert accountants and real estate valuators, if the evidence of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company is to be contradicted. Upon a failure so to present evidence in behalf of the City the Master will determine the case exclusively upon the evidence introduced in behalf of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company. The evidence offered by the Chicago Rapid Transit Company included an appraisal of the property showing a claimed valuation of over one hundred sixty million dollars ($160,000,000.00) and included a request by the Company for nearly one million dollars ($1,000,000.00) more for operating expenses.

I desire again to call your attention to my former communications to the City Council, to the Committee on Finance and to the Committee on Local Transportation, which asked for an appropriation so that this evidence might be obtained and used in this case before the Master in Chancery.

It is unnecessary for me to remind you that without the funds as requested in my previous letters it will be impossible for us to employ engineers, real estate appraisers and accountants in the preparation of a defense to the claims of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company and to the high valuations which the elevated railroad company has introduced in evidence in the case. The case, therefore, will have to be determined by the court upon the evidence as presented by the Chicago Rapid Transit Company.

Yours very respectfully,

(Signed) Samuel A. Ettelson,
Corporation Counsel.

An Ordinance Amending Sections 28, 32 and 33 of The Chicago Municipal Code of 1922.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Chicago:

SECTION 1. That Section 28 of The Chicago Municipal Code of 1922 be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"28. Selection of City depositaries.) It shall be the duty of the comptroller, at least once in each year, and not later than the first day of December in each year, to advertise for bids from all regularly established national and state banks doing business within the city, for interest upon the money of the city and the school funds of the City of Chicago which will be deposited in said banks upon their selection as city and school fund depositaries. A regularly established national or state bank is hereby defined to mean a bank which has been doing business in the city of Chicago and has furnished at least one sworn statement of resources and liabilities to the state auditor or to the comptroller of the currency prior to the date upon which the bids provided for herein are to be submitted. It shall be the duty of the comptroller in so advertising for bids to ask for special bids for interest upon such money as shall be deposited in said banks and permitted to remain without diminution for periods of at least thirty, sixty or ninety days. Such bids shall be referred to the city council for its information and consideration not later than the fifteenth day of December of each year. The city council shall then either reject all bids or designate as many depositaries as it deems necessary for the protection of the city's interests, and award bids accordingly, and pass all necessary ordinances in reference thereto."

Chicago's Budget Problem for the Year 1930.

The Committee on Finance submitted the following report:

CHICAGO, November 27, 1929.

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Chicago in City Council Assembled:

(Signed) JOHN S. CLARK,

Alderman Clark moved to concur in said report.

No request being made by any two Aldermen present to defer consideration of said report for final action thereon until the next regular meeting and the question being put,

The motion prevailed.

The following is the statement recommended for publication in the foregoing report:

CHICAGO'S BUDGET PROBLEM FOR 1930.

STATEMENT PREPARED BY THE COMMITTEE ON FINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

In order that a complete understanding may be had as to the facts leading up to the present deficit of more than $13,000,000.00 in the general corporate fund of the City of Chicago and the shrinkage of current revenue for the year 1930 in excess of $6,000,000.00, and the need for reducing the operating budget of the City of Chicago by more than $9,000,000.00 for the year 1930, the following information is given:

The general corporate fund of the City is that derived from the City's percentage of the taxes and from miscellaneous sources consisting of license and permit fees, rents, franchise compensations, etc. This fund is used for paying the operating expenses of the City, such as police and fire protection, maintenance and operation of the street lighting system, Health Department activities, street cleaning and garbage removal, operation of the municipal courts, the cost of conducting elections, the maintenance and operation of bridges, and all other miscellaneous expenses in maintaining the city government of Chicago.

All references in this explanation are to the general corporate fund of the City.

At the end of the year 1926, the City had a deficit of $1,997,466.51. The budget for the year 1927 was drafted by the Committee on Finance in the usual way and during its consideration, on account of the quadrennial assessment which was to be made in 1927, the Comptroller certified to the Committee on Finance that he anticipated an increase in property values for taxation purposes to the extent of $300,000,000.00 over that anticipated for 1926. All of this occurred before valuations for the years 1926 and 1927 were known.

The valuations for 1926 proved to be $152,000,000.00 less than the estimated valuations, which accounts largely for the deficit of the year 1926. The Comptroller had previously thereto made a public statement that there would be sufficient income, due to increased property values, to materially increase the pay of members of the police and fire departments. After the Comptroller had made such public statement and certified to such increased property values and recommended the same in his budget estimates submitted to the City Council, there was nothing to be done but to approve such increase in salaries.

A change in administration of the City government occurred in April, 1927, and shortly thereafter, on May 2, 1927, the then Comptroller submitted a statement to the City Council calling attention to the fact that the surplus of 1926 previously reported as $2,177,351.90 and included in the Comptroller's estimate in connection with the 1927 budget had been reduced to a deficit of $1,997,466.51, or a total change in the financial situation of $4,174,818.41, and that the City faced a deficit on December 31, 1927, on the basis of valuations determined for 1926 and the tax rate then existing of $7,957,469.75. The Comptroller also called attention to the fact that the City's power to issue bonds for the payment of construction work had practically been exhausted.

In order to avoid this deficit and to permit the City to sell bonds to carry on construction work previously authorized by the voters, the State Legislature was requested to increase the City's tax rate and to change the law so that the full value of taxable property might be applied for taxing purposes instead of the 50% basis then prevailing. This relief was granted by the Legislature of 1927. However, several months thereafter, it became known that the taxable property values had been increased by the Board of Assessors and the Board of Review by an amount of about $486,000,000.00.

The Comptroller's annual report for the year 1927 indicated that the City closed the year with a deficit of $1,318,548.02. Thereafter, on account of attacks on the taxes levied in the year 1927 and through other adjustments, the deficit for the year 1927 was increased to $5,446,938.93. This deficit might largely have been obviated, had the City known in time the amount of the assessed valuations and the tax rate which was to be used during the year 1927. As it was, on account of the tax levy having been passed early in 1927, the City was unable to take advantage of its full tax rate.

Then followed the preparation of the budget for the year 1928 in the same manner as had been practiced for many years. The expenditures for that year amounted to $58,414,170.11. The revenue from miscellaneous sources amounted to $16,313,000.00 The estimated net tax was placed at $44,048,182.72. This latter amount was produced by anticipating an increase in valuations over 1927 by $100,000,000.00. The estimated deficit on December 31, 1928, was $3,499,926.32.

During the year 1928, the State Tax Commission intervened and demanded a complete assessment of all property in Cook County for the year 1928. The budget for the year 1929 was then prepared, and again the same methods were adopted as in previous years and an increase of $100,000,000.00 in taxable property was anticipated over that previously anticipated for the year 1928. A tax rate of $1.075 per $100.00 assessed valuation was applied instead of $1.125 authorized by law. The 1929 Legislature was asked to reduce the tax rate for the City Corporate purposes to $1.075.

On June 3, 1929, the City Council passed a resolution upon the recommendation of the Committee on Finance requesting the State Legislature to pass the bill pending before that body, which reduced the tax rate from $1.125 to $1.075 per $100.00 assessed valuation. This recommendation was made due to the fact that the assessed valuations were greatly increased for 1927 after the new tax rate was granted and it was hoped that the increase in valuations would prevail.

Miscellaneous revenues of 1929 were estimated at $15,778,959.00, and the net 1929 taxes were estimated at $43,057,985.71. It was further estimated that there would be collected on account of 1927 taxes in litigation, $1,917,473.10 and that there would be further adjustments of accounts amounting to $2,104,288.57 which would produce a total resource in 1929 of $62,508,706.38. Subtracting the deficit of December 31, 1928, amounting to $3,499,926.32, from the estimated available sum of $62,508,706.38 would produce an estimated net resource available for expenditure in 1929 of $59,008,780.06. The estimated expense of 1929 was placed at $58,906,222.31 and this budget plan would have produced an estimated surplus on December 31, 1929, of $102,557.75.

During the year 1929, it had been stated by those in charge of modernizing the assessment methods of Cook County that they expected a substantial increase in assessments on account of the revaluations. Some of the Press of Chicago and public sentiment demanded that the police force be substantially increased, ranging from 1,000 to 4,000 men in number. The Committee on Finance was given assurance by Press articles and by others that the taxable property would surely be increased sufficiently to pay for the added police force. After many days of deliberation and discussion, the City Council authorized the employment of 750 policemen on the theory that the total increased valuations on property assessments would be sufficient to produce the necessary tax money to pay this additional expense.

The above recital is the way the situation appeared to the Comptroller and the City Council in June, 1929, as is evidenced by the Comptroller's report to the City Council on June 26, 1929.

Due to the order of the State Tax Commission and the necessary time required to make the reassessment of taxable property, there has been no collection of taxes for the year 1928 and no certain time as to when the taxes for the year 1928 or the year 1929 will be paid.

To the surprise of everyone, the figures which appeared in the public Press giving the valuations of real estate for the year 1928 indicated a reduction in such values of more than $415,000,000.00, and the best information available indicates that there will be a decrease in valuations in the assessment of railroads in Chicago of approximately $50,000,000.00, making a total reduction in valuations of $465,000,000.00. The Southtown which embraces the loop area, has been the beneficiary of a decrease in tax valuations of $223,149,000.00.

Instead of assessing property at its full, fair cash value, a so-called equalization factor of 37% was used. The 37% factor is based upon farm, village and city property in Illinois, all outside of Cook County. The condition now is that the City must apply against expenditures already made during the years 1928 and 1929 such taxes as may be received on account of the reduced valuations for these years. The valuation for 1928 is $565,000,000.00 less than the valuations assumed for that year and for 1929 is $665,000,000.00 less than that assumed for 1929. This is the crux of the situation. It is these reductions which have brought about the present difficulty. The estimated deficit of December 31, 1928, amounts to $9,922,854.00, and for 1929 it is estimated that the shortage will amount to $3,147,519.00, making a total deficit of $13,070,373.00. The estimated income from taxes in 1930, together with miscellaneous revenue, is about $6,000,000.00 less than the 1929 requirements.

A further burden has been placed upon the City in that there will be required for the payment of interest on tax warrants issued during the years 1928 and 1929, all of which are now outstanding, a total of $4,354,219.00 as compared with the usual appropriation for this purpose of about $1,400,000.00.

A further burden is placed upon the corporate fund in that it is necessary to appropriate for public benefits assessed against the City of Chicago in connection with various special assessment improvements on account of the exhaustion of street improvement bond funds and the failure of the public to approve issues of other bonds to pay such public benefits. This burden will amount to about $1,130,000.00 in 1930 as compared to about $300,000.00 in 1929. This action is necessary in order to protect special assessment paper outstanding, to safeguard the interest of the public in connection with the cost of special assessment improvements to be made in the future. With a decreased revenue of about $6,000,000.00 and with an increased demand on account of special assessment public benefits chargeable against the City of Chicago, and the increased cost of interest over that ordinarily provided for, there is required a reduction in the ordinary expenses of the City government of more than $9,700,000.00, without consideration being given to the deficits which have accumulated during the years 1928 and 1929 on account of the large reduction in valuations of assessable property.

In order to meet the required reduction of $9,700,000.00, it will be necessary to reduce all activities of the City government an average of 17%. This, however, can not be accomplished due to the fact that some items are irreducible, such as interest on tax warrants and judgments, municipal courts, board of election commissioners, and others. This, of necessity, requires larger reductions from other activities. As salaries constitute about 75% of the appropriations, it will become necessary to apply the greater portion of the reductions to man-power.

A question may naturally be raised in the minds of some as to the justification that City authorities had in assuming increases in the valuations from year to year. The fact that building construction carried on in Chicago has in each year since 1923 approximated an average of $1,000,000.00 per calendar day and the almost unprecedented increase in appreciation of land values is sufficient answer to such questions.

The following table is given for the purpose of showing the actual value of building permits issued in the City and the full valuation of real estate as determined by the assessing authorities, and indicates that until 1928 the average increase in valuations was practically in accord with the assumptions made.

CITY OF CHICAGO—BUILDING PERMITS		CITY OF CHICAGO—FULL VALUATION
Year	Cost	Real Estate	+ Increase or — Decrease Over Previous Year
1923	$329,604,312	$2,594,710,042	$ +241,568,754
1924	296,893,990	2,586,039,676	— 8,670,366
1925	360,794,250	2,713,217,868	+127,178,192
1926	366,586,400	2,807,926,632	+ 80,708,764
1927	352,936,400	3,247,359,299	+439,432,667
1928	315,800,000	*2,832,131,788	—415,227,511

*Estimated from preliminary reports of reassessment by Board of Assessors.

The total cost of the buildings constructed in a 6-year period represents 70% of the total real estate valuation as indicated for the year 1928, which sum includes all land and building values.

Question has been raised by others as to the high cost of government in the Chicago area. The latest information prepared by the United States Bureau of the Census for the year 1927 shows the comparative cost of local governments in Chicago to be $45.37 per capita as compared with New York's cost of $54.87 per capita and Detroit's cost of $50.48 per capita.

The impression prevails generally among the citizen body of Chicago that the City government is responsible for the expenditure of all tax moneys. This, however, is far from the facts. On account of the multiplicity of governments within the area of Chicago, the City receives for general corporate purposes only 21 1/3c of each tax dollar collected.

There was a reduction in the proportion of the tax dollar for City corporate purposes from 27 1/2c to 21 1/3c over a period of nine years.

The attached table and chart shows the distribution of the tax dollar to the various local taxing agencies.

Designation of "International Stock Show Week".

The City Clerk presented the following proclamation, which was ordered published and placed on file:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,)
CHICAGO, November 29, 1929.)

PROCLAMATION.

It is particularly fitting that Chicago, as the hub of American agriculture should furnish a stage once every year to review the progressive changes taking place in this fundamental industry.

The occasion for this annual demonstration of farm progress is the International Live Stock Exposition. In consideration of its vast drawing power for legions of visitors, not only from all parts of America, but also abroad; in view of its furnishing a flood-light that brings Chicago into visible relief to the very farthermost corners of the earth, wherever the cultivation of the land and the care of live stock are means of livelihood, I feel that it is more than suitable recognition from ourselves, as hosts, to proclaim the week of this exposition, November 30 to December 7, as "International Stock Show Week".

The International Live Stock Exposition is a humanizing force. It provides a place where townspeople and country folk meet and mingle in the common enjoyment of fine live stock. It offers the man from town the opportunity to acquaint himself with the means and mechanics of an industry, and the social side of a life, about which no one can with any degree of intelligence plead ignorance.

I hereby urge all citizens of Chicago to mark this week with every possible courtesy to the visiting thousands from the country. And in consideration of the fact that the interests of town and country are becoming more and more closely interwoven, I hope that you will seize the opportunity to enjoy the education and entertainment which this important civic and national institution will have to offer, by paying a visit to the 30th edition of the show, November 30 to December 7.

(Signed) WM. HALE THOMPSON,
Mayor.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

Report on the Legal Status of the Proposed Removal of the Market St. Elevated Railroad Stub.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was ordered published and referred to the Committee on Local Transportation:

DEPARTMENT OF LAW,
CHICAGO, November 21, 1929.

To the Honorable, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Chicago:

GENTLEMEN—Upon October 31, 1929, your honorable body passed the following order:

"Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be and he is hereby directed to submit to the City Council a compilation of the legal procedure to date dealing with the removal of the Market Street Stub of the Elevated Railroad System."

In compliance with this order, we submit the following:

On the 15th day of November, 1911, this office, at the request of the Mayor of the City, rendered a legal opinion upon the status of the so-called "Market Street Stub" and the right of the City to compel the removal of the same from Market street, which opinion is as follows:

"November 15, 1911.

Hon. Carter H. Harrison, Mayor:

DEAR SIR—With reference to the right of the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to occupy Market street between Lake street and Madison street with an elevated railroad, we beg to advise you as follows:

The three ordinances affecting this question appear in the order of their date.

On May 15, 1893, an ordinance was passed by the City granting permission and authority to the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company, by which name the present Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company was then known, to construct, maintain and operate an elevated road and branches in the City of Chicago. Clause 2 of said ordinance is as follows:

> "Also a branch line beginning on the main line of road at Market street and Lake street, running thence in a southerly direction along Market street to south line of Madison street; provided, said line of road on Market street shall not occupy with its posts more than 22 feet of said street on such part of said street as may be designated by the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works, and accepted by the said railroad company, and no more than two main tracks shall be laid upon said Market street, and provided, in leaving its main line of road upon Lake street, it may make the necessary curves to build the line of road hereby authorized upon Market street."

Section 5 of said ordinance is in part as follows:

> "The rights, powers and privileges hereby granted are upon the express condition that all freight trains and other rolling stock of surface steam railroads, shall be absolutely excluded from said elevated railroad, its tracks and right of way, and it shall be used for moving its general passenger trains only, and for accommodating and handling passenger traffic, and the mails, exclusively, to which end said company shall cause its trains to be regularly and systematically moved at such intervals as shall be necessary to accommodate the public, and the number of such trains and the frequency with which they are moved, shall be increased as rapidly as the demands of the public shall render necessary and the increase of traffic warrant. * * *"

This ordinance was thereafter duly accepted and subsequently, on October 1, 1894, another ordinance was passed by the City Council granting to the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company, therein described as the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company, permission to construct, maintain and operate a line of road connecting at the east line of Market street extending north with the line of road now constructed and operated by said company on Lake street, thence extending east on Lake street to the east line of Wabash avenue, subject, however, to the provisions of said ordinance contained, among others being Clause 5, which is in part as follows:

> 'All trains operated by said company over its line of road, passing over the Lake street bridge eastwardly, shall at least alternately continue eastwardly over a line of road hereby authorized, and in case said company shall hereafter obtain the right to build, or use a loop line for running its trains, then all its trains proceeding eastwardly over the Lake street bridge, shall continue to proceed eastwardly over the elevated railroad hereby authorized, and no trains of said company shall move eastwardly over the elevated railroad authorized, between Wabash avenue and Market street, except such trains as have proceeded eastwardly over the elevated railroad hereby authorized.'

This ordinance was also duly accepted by the Company.

On June 29, 1896, the City Council granted permission to the Union Consolidated Elevated Railroad Company to construct what was known as the "Loop", commencing at Lake street and Fifth avenue, extending thence east to Wabash avenue, thence south on Wabash avenue to Van Buren street, thence west on Van Buren street to Fifth avenue, thence north on Fifth avenue to Lake street. This ordinance was also duly accepted, and by an arrangement between the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company and the Union Consolidated Elevated Railroad Company, the former company was permitted to use the aforesaid loop, and thereafter did so, and in so doing ran its cars eastwardly over the Lake street bridge to Wabash avenue, at which time it ceased to use the spur on Market street extending from Lake to Madison street, and said Market street spur was unused by said Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company until about the 13th day of July, A. D. 1908, when the City Council passed an order (Council Proceedings 1908-1909, page 1168), which was in words and figures following:

"WHEREAS, A great many complaints have been received as to the service now being rendered by the Chicago & Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company; and

WHEREAS, Said Railroad Company has expressed its willingness to put into operation at least five additional trains each day, but represents that it is unable to operate such additional trains owing to the lack of adequate 'Loop' facilities; and

WHEREAS, Said Railroad Company can operate such additional trains, if permitted to use the present Market street station as its terminal, for such additional trains; and

WHEREAS, The City of Chicago is willing that the said railroad company may use said Market street terminal for such additional trains, under certain terms and conditions; now therefore, it is Ordered, That the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company may be permitted and permission and authority are hereby granted to operate not less than five additional trains daily between its terminal station at Austin avenue and its terminal station at Market street without having such trains traverse the 'loop'; provided, however, that all of said trains shall bear a readily legible sign, approved by the Commissioner of Public Works, definitely indicating that said trains do not traverse the 'loop'; and provided, further, that the number of cars to be operated by the said company around said 'loop' shall not be less than the present number of cars now operated by said company around said 'loop' so long as said company avails itself of the permission and authority hereby granted.

It is expressly understood and agreed, however, and the acceptance by the railroad company of the privileges granted in this order shall be considered as an acceptance with the express understanding and agreement that the passage of this order shall not at any time or in any way or in any proceeding whether at law or in equity, be considered or taken as a waiver by the City of Chicago of any right or rights whatsoever, or as a recognition of the validity of any of the ordinances of said railroad company or of any portion of any of said ordinances under and by virtue of which said Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company now claims to operate any line of railroad, either surface or elevated, in said City of Chicago and that the grant of permission and authority herein contained is a mere temporary measure and made for the sole purpose of, and shall have the sole effect of, facilitating the transportation of patrons of said railroad company, and may be revoked, cancelled and annulled at any time in the discretion of the Mayor or the City Council.

It does not admit of dispute that the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company was not, after the construction of the loop, authorized to operate any car or train of cars passing either to or from the Market street spur across the Lake street bridge, unless such car or train of cars also traversed the loop hereinbefore referred to. The only remaining use then to which the Market street spur could be devoted would be that of a branch connecting with the main line at a point east of the river and outside of the loop.

The fact that the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company has not seen fit at any time to operate on Market street in either of the methods last above referred to would seem to be fairly strong evidence that either of said methods of operation was impracticable, and if such is the case said Market street branch would serve no useful purpose either to the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company or that portion of the public residing in the City of Chicago having occasion to patronize said Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company's line of road. If such were to be determined to be the case the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company would not have any right outside of the order of July 13, 1908, to occupy the portion of Market street involved in this opinion with its tracks, and said tracks would, therefore, constitute a useless construction to that portion of Market street occupied by them, which would properly be deemed a nuisance and be abatable as such.

It will be noted that Section 5 of the ordinance of May 15, 1893, requires the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to cause its trains to be regularly and systematically moved at such intervals as shall be necessary to accommodate the public, and the number of such trains and the frequency with which they are moved shall be increased as rapidly as the demands of the public shall render necessary and the increase of traffic warrant. We think that the operation of trains in accordance with this provision is a condition subsequent and that a failure to comply therewith might be made the basis upon which to predicate a termination of all of the rights conferred by the ordinance.

It will be noted that the ordinance does not, by its terms, confer upon the City the right to terminate the grant upon a non-compliance with these conditions subsequent, but, nevertheless, if such conditions are vital to the Company's license to use the street, a court will, on proper application, determine that the Company has no right to further occupy the street with its elevated structure.

City of Belleville vs. Citizens Horse Railway Co., 152 Ill. 171.

People vs. Central Union Telephone Co., 232 Ill. 260.

From these cases it would seem that the City might indicate its election to terminate the grant to the Company by passing an ordinance to that effect, but it also seems that the City will have to follow said ordinance by some proper proceeding in a court of law to terminate the Company's rights in the street, and in this case such proceeding should be in the nature of a quo warranto.

Except for the operation of the Market street line under and by virtue of the order of July 13, 1908, the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company has not operated this line since the construction of the loop, hereinbefore referred to, which, as will be noted, is about fifteen years. This, we believe under the circumstances, amounts to an abandonment of the grant under which the Market street line was constructed.

In Henderson vs. Central Passenger Railway, 21 Fed. 359, the court held that a non-user of ten years constituted an abandonment.

In Louisville Trust Co. vs. City, 76 Fed. 296, the court held that a non-user of twenty years constituted an abandonment.

In State vs. East Fifth Street Railroad Com- pany, 38 L. R. 218 (140 Mo. 539), the court held that a non-user of three years worked a forfeiture of the grant.

In Gerard College Passenger Railroad Company vs. The 13th and 15th Streets, etc., 7 Phil. Rep. 620, the court held that a non-user of eleven years constituted an abandonment.

We are, therefore, of the opinion that the City has a right to have the elevated structure in question removed from that portion of Market street lying between Lake street and Madison street, and that if it is the desire of the administration so to do, the City Council should pass an order terminating the rights conferred by the order of July 13, 1908, should pass an order repealing that portion of the ordinance giving to the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company the right to occupy said portion of Market street aforesaid, and should direct this department to proceed to institute quo warranto proceedings to oust said Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company from that portion of Market street involved in this opinion.

Very truly yours,

The order passed by the City Council on the 13th day of July, 1908, and quoted in the foregoing opinion, which gave the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company permission "to operate not less than five additional trains daily between its terminal station at Austin avenue and its terminal station at Market street without having such trains traverse the 'loop'" was repealed by an ordinance passed by the City Council on July 2, 1914, and all rights conferred upon the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to so operate its trains on the Market street stub under said order of July 13, 1908, were declared terminated. (Council Proceedings 1914-1915, p. 1200.)

On October 5, 1914, the City Council passed the following ordinance:

"Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Chicago:

SECTION 1. That the City of Chicago hereby elects and declares that all rights heretofore granted to the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company, now known as the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, to occupy with its elevated tracks Market street from the south line of the present elevated railroad of said company in Lake street to the south line of Madison street forever cease and determine.

SECTION 2. The Corporation Counsel of the City of Chicago is hereby authorized and directed to take such action as he may deem fit and proper to enforce the foregoing section and to cause Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to remove all of its elevated structure from that portion of Market street described in the foregoing section.

SECTION 3. This ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage and approval."

(Council Proceedings 1914-1915, p. 1440.)

At the time the City was engaged in the widening of Market street, and the existing structure of the elevated railroad company in Market street interfered with such work, the City Council passed an ordinance on the 29th day of June, 1922, requiring the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to "re-arrange the columns supporting its elevated structure located in North Market street, * * * including the intersection with West Lake street, between the extended street lines of said North Market street, (all of such structures being located between the north line of West Lake street, extending from the east, and the north curb line of West Randolph street), * * * and re-locate the stairway now located on the north side of West Randolph street in such a manner as not to obstruct the roadway of said North Market street, as widened and improved, and may make such other changes in and additions to the stairways, platform and buildings at the said location as it may deem necessary, or at its discretion may remove said station, platform and stairways altogether, and discontinue and abandon said station." (Council Proceedings 1922-1923, p. 704.)

The ordinance further provided that in the event the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company did not do the work and make the changes required by the ordinance within a certain time, the Board of Local Improvements should do the work "at the expense of the company".

It appears that the Elevated Railroad Company did not do the work required by the terms and provisions of the foregoing ordinance, and in order to expedite and complete the construction of Wacker drive, and also the widening of Market street, the City was obliged to make changes in the elevated structure at its own expense, and charge the Chicago Rapid Transit Co. for the same, under the terms of said ordinance and a similar ordinance applying to the elevated structure on Wells street. These changes and re-locations were made on North Market street and North Wells street.

On April 24, 1926, suit was filed by the City of Chicago against the Chicago Rapid Transit Co. alleging that the City of Chicago had expended the sum of $250,000.00 in re-locating the elevated structure, and alleging that the Chicago Rapid Transit Co. was under the duty of reimbursing the City for the cost of making such changes. This suit is now pending in the Circuit Court of Cook County, entitled, City of Chicago vs. Chicago Rapid Transit Co. No. B-130944.

On the 13th day of September, 1926, a mandamus proceedings was instituted by the City of Chicago against the Chicago Rapid Transit Co. for the purpose of compelling the Elevated Railroad Co. to make the changes and relocations in its elevated structure on Market street as required by the said ordinance passed June 29, 1922, and also for the purpose of compelling the Elevated Railroad Company to make the changes and relocations in its elevated structure in Wells street and other streets, as required by similar ordinances. This case entitled, People ex rel City of Chicago vs. Chicago Rapid Transit Co. (Gen. No. 445,464) is now pending in the Superior Court of Cook County on a demurrer filed by the Chicago Rapid Transit Co. to the petition for writ of mandamus filed by the City of Chicago. This case will be called for hearing on said demurrer for December 21, 1929, before the Honorable Walter P. Steffen, one of the judges of the Superior Court.

We have been informed by Mr. A. Engh, an Engineer for the Board of Local Improvements, that there has been an arrangement between the Chicago

Rapid Transit Co. and the City, that the engineers of the Elevated Railroad Company and the engineers of the City are to determine the exact cost of making the changes and re-locations required by said ordinances, on Market street and Wells street, and that after the engineers have agreed upon the changes and the cost thereof, any legal questions arising therefrom would then be settled between the City and the Chicago Rapid Transit Co.

A search of court records reveals no further legal proceedings commenced or pending concerning the so-called "Market street stub" or the elevated structure in Market street, between Lake and Madison streets.

A tile pipe sewer of ten (10) inches internal diameter shall be constructed in the intersection of Beverly avenue with West 97th street along a straight line, from and connecting with the sewer in Beverly avenue at the northerly line of West 97th street produced from the west—said sewer being thirty-eight (38) feet westerly of and parallel with the easterly line of said Beverly avenue—to a point on the easterly line of Beverly avenue thirty-three (33) feet southerly of the northerly line of West 97th street, produced from the west. The bottom of the inside of said sewer at the said sewer connection shall be at an elevation of thirty-one and eighty hundredths (31.80) feet above Chicago City datum as established by the City Council of the City of Chicago, and thence shall rise gradually to an elevation of thirty-four (34) feet above said Chicago City datum at its eastern terminus. One (1) new brick manhole shall be built on said sewer at its eastern terminus. Two (2) new brick catchbasins shall be built, trapped and connected with said sewer and located in the roadway of and adjacent to the easterly curb line of Beverly avenue; one (1) each opposite the northerly and southerly curb lines of West 97th street, produced from the west.

One (1) new brick catchbasin shall be built, trapped, and connected with the sewer in South Ashland avenue, as and when opened, at an elevation of thirty-one and eighty hundredths (31.80) feet above said Chicago City datum—said sewer being ten (10) feet west of and parallel with the east line of said South Ashland avenue—and located in the roadway of and adjacent to the east curb line of said South Ashland avenue three hundred forty (340) feet south of the south line of West 95th street, as and when widened.

Twenty-two (22) new brick catchbasins shall be built, trapped and connected with the sewer in Beverly avenue—said sewer being thirty-eight (38) feet westerly of and parallel with the easterly line of said Beverly avenue—and located at necessary points in the roadway; ten (10) adjacent to the westerly curb line of said Beverly avenue and twelve (12) adjacent to the easterly curb line of said Beverly avenue.

Said manhole shall be cylindrical in shape and shall have an internal diameter of three (3) feet, excepting the upper portion two (2) feet in height, which shall be conical in shape, being reduced to two (2) feet internal diameter at the top. The wall of said manhole shall be eight (8)) inches in thickness and shall be built of sewer brick masonry. The invert of the sewer through the manhole shall be built of two (2) rings of sewer brick masonry and on each side thereof shall be built a solid sewer brick masonry foundation twelve (12) inches in thickness, making the entire foundation four (4) feet, six (6) inches in diameter.

Each of said catchbasins shall be cylindrical in shape and shall have an internal diameter of three (3) feet, excepting the upper portion two (2) feet in height, which shall be conical in shape, being reduced to two (2) feet internal diameter at the top. The walls of said catchbasins shall be eight (8) inches in thickness and shall be built of sewer brick masonry which shall rest upon a floor of pine plank two (2) inches in thickness. Each of said catchbasins shall be six (6) feet in depth, measuring from the top of the cover to the top of the pine plank floor.

Each of said catchbasins shall be trapped with an eight (8) inch tile pipe half trap. The inside bottom of said half traps shall be set two (2) feet above the floor of each of said catchbasins. Each of said half traps shall be connected in a direct line, which shall slope downward, to the sewer herein specified by means of tile pipe of eight (8) inches internal diameter.

Said manhole and each of said catchbasins shall be provided with a suitable cast iron cover, which cover, inclusive of lid, shall weigh five hundred forty (540) pounds, or with a cast iron cover known as the Economy Reversible Manhole Curb with a suitable lid, which cover, inclusive of lid, shall weigh four hundred forty (440) pounds. Said covers shall be set so that the top of the same shall conform with the surface of the finished pavement herein described.

The three (3) existing sewer manholes and the two (2) existing sewer catchbasins located in the roadway of said South Ashland avenue, as and when opened, also the forty-three (43) existing sewer manholes and the thirty-four (34) existing sewer catchbasins located in the roadway of Beverly avenue shall be adjusted with material of the same kind and quality as that of which they were originally constructed, in such a manner as to make the top of the covers of said manholes and catchbasins conform with the surface of the finished pavement herein described.

A catchbasin inlet shall be constructed in the gutter in the roadway of and adjacent to the curb lines of said above specified streets opposite each of said existing sewer catchbasins.

Each of said inlets shall consist of a suitable cast iron grating twenty-one and one-half (21½) inches by fourteen and one-half (14½)) inches, weighing ninety (90) pounds, supported in a suitable cast iron frame weighing one hundred ninety (190) pounds, set upon a foundation of sewer brick masonry thirty-six (36) inches in depth, twenty-five (25) inches in width and thirty-eight (38) inches in length, with a suitable opening through the foundation connecting the grating with the eight (8) inch tile pipe herein provided leading to the adjacent catchbasin. Each of said inlets shall be connected with the adjacent catchbasin, opposite thereto and approximately nine (9) feet therefrom, by means of tile pipe of eight (8) inches internal diameter. The center of the eight (8) inch tile pipe at its connection with the opening in the foundation shall be thirty-three (33) inches below the top of the said grating, and at the connection with the catchbasin shall be forty-five (45) inches below the top of the cover of the said catchbasin. The top of said cast iron grating shall conform to the upper surface of the gutter immediately adjacent.

All tile pipe used throughout said improvement shall be straight, smooth and sound, thoroughly burned, well glazed, free from lumps and other imperfections and of the following required thicknesses: seven-eighths (⅞) of an inch for ten (10) inch pipe and three-fourths (¾) of an inch for eight (8) inch pipe.

All brick and the joints of the tile pipe shall be laid with cement mortar composed of one (1) part Portland cement, two (2) parts natural hydraulic cement and six (6) parts clean, sharp sand.

The elevation of the center of said eight (8) inch tile pipe from said new catchbasins where it connects with the existing sewer in Beverly avenue shall be at the following elevations:

Beverly Avenue	Feet above datum
50 feet southerly of the southeast corner of Beverly avenue and said South Ashland avenue	31.00

1,450 feet southerly of West 100th place	29.40

The above elevations as fixed shall be measured from Chicago City datum as established by the City Council of the City of Chicago.

The surface of the said pavement thence shall slope gradually to meet the surface of the finished pavement at the easterly line of said Beverly avenue.

A foundation of Portland cement concrete eight (8) inches thick shall be laid upon the roadbed thus prepared between said points and between said gutters.

The sand used in making concrete for the said concrete foundation shall be clean and sharp, free from dust, dirt and other impurities and shall contain not more than three (3) per cent of clay or loam, and be graded so that not less than ninety-five (95) per cent can pass a four (4) mesh sieve and not more than twenty-five (25) per cent can pass a fifty (50) mesh sieve.

The slag or limestone screenings used in making concrete for the said concrete foundation shall be made from the best quality of slag or limestone, free from dust, dirt and other impurities, and shall be graded so that not less than ninety-five (95) per cent can pass a four (4) mesh sieve and not more than fifteen (15) per cent can pass a one hundred (100) mesh sieve.

The slag, limestone or other stone equivalent in quality, for concrete purposes used in making the concrete for the said concrete foundation shall be of the best quality of each of the respective materials to be used, clean, free from dust and graded so that one hundred (100) per cent can pass a ring of two (2) inches inside diameter, and not less than twenty (20) per cent nor more than forty (40) per cent can pass a ring of three-fourths (¾) inch inside diameter, and not more than ten (10) per cent can pass a ring of one-fourth (¼) inch inside diameter.

The Portland cement used in this improvement shall be ground so that ninety-two (92) per cent can pass a one hundred (100) mesh sieve, and shall be of such quality that briquettes made of a mortar composed of a proper amount of clean water, one (1) part by volume of said Portland cement and three (3) parts by volume of said sand used for making the concrete for the said concrete foundation shall have at the expiration of seven (7) days, an ultimate tensile strength of at least two hundred (200) pounds per square inch, after being exposed to the air for the first day and then submerged in water for the six (6) following days.

The concrete for the said concrete foundation shall be made by mixing by volume one (1) part of said Portland cement, two and one-half (2½) parts of said sand or two and one-half (2½) parts of said slag or limestone screenings and five (5) parts of said slag, limestone, or other stone together with a proper amount of clean water in a rotary batch mixer until the resulting concrete has been thoroughly mixed. The said concrete shall then be spread upon the surface of the roadbed prepared as herein prescribed and rammed until thoroughly compacted. The upper surface of said concrete foundation shall be parallel with and three and one-half (3½) inches below the upper surface of the finished pavement.

A binder course two (2) inches thick shall be laid upon said concrete foundation.

The sand or limestone screenings used in making the mixture for the binder course and the sand used in making the mixture for the wearing course shall be clean, hard-grained, free from foreign matter, and so graded that all of said sand or limestone screenings can pass a four (4) mesh sieve and so that not more than six (6) per cent can be held on a ten (10) mesh sieve and so that not less than eight (8) per cent nor more than twenty-five (25) per cent can pass a ten (10) mesh sieve and be held on a forty (40) mesh sieve, and so that not less than thirty (30) per cent nor more than fifty-six (56) per cent can pass a forty (40) mesh sieve and be held on an eighty (80) mesh sieve, and so that not less than twenty (20) per cent nor more than forty-five (45) per cent can pass an eighty (80) mesh sieve.

The limestone or other stone equal thereto for binder mixture used in the mixture for the binder course shall be clean, broken, hard and durable, free from foreign matter and so graded that all can pass a ring of one and five-eighths (1⅝) inches inside diameter and ninety (90) per cent thereof can be held on a ring of one-fourth (¼) inch inside diameter.

Levigated stone shall be construed to mean, for the purpose of this ordinance, levigated limestone, other levigated stone equivalent to levigated limestone for paving purposes, Portland cement or the finely divided mineral matter self contained in the refined native solid asphalt.

The refined asphalt used in making the asphalt cement for the mixture for the binder course and the mixture for the wearing course shall be obtained from crude, native solid asphalt, except as herein provided. If crude, native solid asphalt is used and requires refining, it shall be heated to a temperature of not over four hundred fifty (450) degrees Fahrenheit until all water and light oils have been driven off. At least ninety-eight and one-half (98½) per cent of the bitumen contained in the said refined asphalt which is soluble in carbon disulphide shall be soluble in cold carbon tetra chloride.

The refined asphalt used in making said asphalt cement may also be obtained by the straight reduction of asphaltic petroleum until the refined asphalt has a consistency not softer than seven (7) millimeters penetration and not harder than two and one-half (2½) millimeters penetration, the penetration being made with a No. 2 Needle, weighted with one hundred (100) grams acting for five (5) seconds on the material at a temperature of seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit. Ninety-eight and one-half (98½) per cent of the said refined asphalt, so obtained, shall be soluble in cold carbon tetra chloride. When fifty (50) grams of said refined asphalt is heated in an uncovered tin box five and one-half (5½) centimeters in diameter and three and one-half (3½) centimeters in depth and is held at a temperature of three hundred twenty-five (325) degrees Fahrenheit for five (5) hours, then it shall have lost not over two (2) per cent by weight and the penetration of the residue thus obtained shall be not less than one-half (½) of the penetration before such heating, said penetration being determined as herein prescribed. The said refined asphalt shall have a ductility of not less than sixty (60) centimeters at five (5) millimeters penetration determined as herein prescribed, said ductility being determined by elongating a briquette, Dow form, of said refined asphalt at a uniform rate of five (5) centimeters per minute at a temperature of seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit.

The flux used in making the asphalt cement shall be the residuum obtained by the straight reduction of crude petroleum, which flux shall be tested with and found suitable to the refined asphalt to be used. At least ninety-nine (99) per cent of said flux shall be soluble in cold carbon tetra chloride. The flux shall have a specific gravity of not less than ninety-four one-hundredths (.94) and not more than one and ten one-hundredths (1.10) at seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit as compared with water at seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit, and when tested in a Cleveland Open Cup Oil Tester, it shall not flash below a temperature of three hundred eighty (380) degrees Fahrenheit; and when fifty (50) grams of the said flux is heated in an uncovered tin box five and one-half (5½) centimeters in diameter and three and one-half (3½) centimeters in depth and is held at a temperature of three hundred twenty-five (325) degrees Fahrenheit for five (5) hours, then it shall not have lost over three (3) per cent by weight. The flux shall have a penetration of not less than thirty-five (35) millimeters, the penetration being made with a No. 2 needle weighted with fifty (50) grams acting for one (1) second, the material being tested at seventy-seven (77) degrees Fahrenheit.

The asphalt cement used in the binder course and in the wearing course shall be made from one (1) of said refined asphalts or from a mixture of any two (2) of said refined asphalts and said flux, if flux must be used, provided that the mixture of refined asphalts shall contain equal parts of each of the refined asphalts, and that the said asphalt cement shall contain not less than sixty (60) per cent by weight of refined asphalt or asphalts. The said asphalt cement shall be made by mixing and heating the said refined asphalt or asphalts and the said flux in a kettle at a temperature not lower than two hundred fifty (250) degrees Fahrenheit and not higher than three hundred fifty (350) degrees Fahrenheit. This mixture shall be thoroughly agitated when hot by steam, air or mechanical means until the said mixture has become homogeneous. The said asphalt cement shall have a penetration, determined as herein prescribed, of not less than two and one-half (2½) millimeters and not more than seven (7) millimeters. When fifty (50) grams of said asphalt cement is heated in an uncovered tin box five and one-half (5½) centimeters in diameter and three and one-half (3½) centimeters in depth and is held at a temperature of three hundred twenty-five (325) degrees Fahrenheit for five (5) hours, then it shall have lost not more than three (3) per cent by weight, and the penetration. determined as herein prescribed, shall be not less than one-half (½) of the penetration before such heating. A briquette, Dow form, of the said asphalt cement of the consistency as used in this improvement shall have a ductility, determined as herein prescribed, of not less than twenty (20) centimeters.

The mixture for the binder course shall be made by heating and intimately mixing the said limestone, or other stone, the said sand or the said limestone screenings and the said asphalt cement. The said mixture shall contain by weight five (5) per cent of bitumen soluble in carbon disulphide; twenty-five (25) per cent of said sand or said limestone screenings and seventy (70) per cent of said limestone, or other stone. The said mixture shall be spread on the said concrete foundation, and while in a hot and plastic condition shall be rolled to an even surface with a self-propelled roller weighing not less than ten (10) tons. The said binder course after ultimate compression shall have a thickness of two (2) inches, and the upper surface shall be parallel with and one and one-half (1½) inches below the upper surface of the finished pavement.

The mixture for the wearing course shall be made by intimately mixing, while hot, the said sand, the said asphalt cement and the said levigated stone. The said sand and the said asphalt cement shall be heated separately to a temperature of not less than three hundred (300) degrees Fahrenheit, and the said levigated stone shall be intimately mixed with the said sand and then both shall be intimately mixed with the said asphalt cement. The said mixture shall contain, by weight, bitumen soluble in carbon disulphide, eleven (11) per cent; said levigated stone fourteen (14) per cent; said sand which can pass an eighty (80) mesh sieve and cannot pass a two hundred (200) mesh sieve twenty-five (25) per cent; said sand which can pass a forty (40) mesh sieve and cannot pass an eighty (80) mesh sieve, thirty-six (36) per cent; said sand which can pass a ten (10) mesh sieve and cannot pass a forty (40) mesh sieve, twelve (12) per cent; said sand which can pass a four (4) mesh sieve and cannot pass a ten (10) mesh sieve, two (2) per cent. The said mixture shall be spread at a temperature of not less than two hundred sixty (260) degrees Fahrenheit to an even surface and to such a depth that after ultimate compression, it shall have a thickness of one and one-half (1½) inches. The wearing course, while still hot and plastic, shall be rolled with a self-propelled roller weighing not less than ten (10) tons. Natural hydraulic cement shall then be spread over the wearing course in such quantity that one (1) barrel of natural hydraulic cement shall cover one thousand (1000) square yards of said wearing course. The said wearing course shall then be thoroughly compressed by rolling with a self-propelled roller weighing not less than ten (10) tons.

Said work to be done in a workmanlike manner under the superintendence of the Board of Local Improvements of the said City of Chicago.

SECTION 4. That the aggregate amount herein ordered to be assessed against the property, and also the assessment on each lot and parcel of land therein assessed shall be divided into five (5) installments in the manner provided by the statute in such cases made and provided, and each of said installments shall bear interest at the rate of five (5) per centum per annum according to law until paid.

SECTION 5. That for the purpose of anticipating the collection of the second and succeeding installments of said assessment for said improvement (excepting such part, if any, that is chargeable to the City of Chicago for public benefits or benefits to public lands), bonds shall be issued payable out of said installments bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per centum per annum, payable annually, and signed by the Mayor and by the President of the Board of Local Improvements, countersigend by the City Comptroller and attested by the City Clerk under the corporate seal of the City of Chicago. Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with and shall in all respects conform to the provision of the Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled, "An Act Concerning Local Improvements", approved June 14th, A. LOCAL TRANSPORTATION.

Progress Report on Efforts Made to Settle Chicago's Traction Problem.

On behalf of the Committee on Local Transportation, Alderman McDonough submitted the following memorandum, which was ordered published and placed on file:

At the last meeting of the City Council I stated that I would either make a written report, or be prepared to state what, in my opinion, was the present status of the transportation problem. I have had prepared for me a chronology of work done in transportation since December 6, 1928, at which time the Citizens Traction Settlement Committee was appointed. The chronology speaks for itself. If you will examine it closely you will find that there has hardly been a week, which has passed, which has not presented a definite progressive step. It would be tiresome to you to have me recite every item which I feel shows the completion of work or the elimination of some part of the problem. It will be enough for me to point out the biggest things accomplished.

You all know that:

(1) The enabling legislation which we started after was passed by the legislature and after being signed by the Governor became effective July 1st.

(2) Upon the request of the local transportation committee a board of engineers and businessmen was designated to make a valuation of the elevated properties. The report of those gentlemen has been made, and the valuation of $95,500,000 has been accepted by the local transportation committee.

(3) The valuation of the Surface Lines, as recommended by our engineers, has been approved and accepted by the companies.

(4) The engineers for the City in negotiation with the engineers for the various companies and the engineers of the Citizens Committee have made a report as to extensions and betterments, including the cost of subways. The companies have agreed to spend $200,000,000 in the first 10 years for extensions and betterments and have agreed to operate under the present rates of fare for an initial period.

(5) A committee of bankers has been appointed to work out a plan of reorganization for the companies, and I am advised and believe that these bankers for sometime past have been working hard on that question.

(6) At a meeting of the attorneys, representing the companies and the sub-committee, held yesterday, a draft of the ordinance, so far as it is completed, was delivered by the attorneys, representing the City and the companies, to the sub-committee. There are one or two questions of policy, which the sub-committee are now considering, and as soon as they have arrived at an opinion they will report this ordinance to the local transportation committee. I am informed that this ordinance is completed insofar as it can be. There is nothing more that can be done in reference to drafting the ordinance until we are ready to take up the financial questions after the financiers have reported.

Incidentally I want to say that the sub-committee has been untiring in its efforts day in and day out. They have sat in with the lawyers working out the provisions of the ordinance and I think that every citizen of Chicago owes them a vote of thanks for all of their strenuous work.

To sum up the present situation, I believe that the bankers are moving as fast as they can. They have a difficult task in the first place, to work out a financial set-up, in the second place to satisfy all of the various security holders, and in addition provide a plan whereby an additional $200,000,000 can be raised for extensions and betterments.

The ordinance has been drafted and is completed as far as it can be at this time. There is one thing, however, which must be done before either the bankers can report, or we can complete an ordinance.

Our engineers have reported to us that subways are necessary for the comprehensive unified system, and have estimated how much those subways will cost.

The determination as to how subways shall be built is the City's job. Until we have decided how subways shall be built, a consolidated company making large extensions is not possible in Chicago. The Loop "bottle neck" that chokes any effort to improve the City's transportation must be broken. Every traction plan submitted in years has been based upon the building of subways, and the negotiations thus far have emphasized that if the City is to have a comprehensive unified system, they are vital and necessary.

The Local Transportation Committee has had presented to it the opinion of eminent engineers as to the location and cost of initial subways. Now that there has been presented a plan and the costs, the public are interested in knowing how these subways are to be built and we should have the best thought of the City on that subject.

Several suggestions have been made, all of which include the using of the traction fund, contributed by car riders and now in the hands of the City. Many have suggested the building of these subways by special assessment. The Gordon Strong report, on the other hand, suggests that the building of subways by special assessment is difficult. Some have suggested that the City build the subways by general taxation, directly or indirectly, through the flotation of bonds under the authority of the City sufficient to meet any deficiency in the traction fund. In addition, there has been suggested the building of subways by the use of the traction fund through a private contractor, any deficit to be privately financed and the private financing to be amortized by such compensation as the City shall receive for the use of public property from the proposed unified transportation company. This method, of course, would necessitate the delay of amortization of the traction properties under the ordinance.

This subway matter is something the City has to settle for itself. I am asking that the sub-committee start hearings on this very important matter at once, obtaining the views and advice of men exceptionally qualified in special assessment, subway financing and construction.

If those who are interested in traction will take this chronology and study it and then consider the size of the company we are dealing with and the number of people that that company serves, they will get some idea of the problem that confronts us at the present time, and in addition to that I am sure that they will feel that their representatives have been serving them well in doing everything that they possibly could do to hasten the drafting of this ordinance for submission to the Council and for submission to them on referendum.

(Signed) JOS. B. MCDONOUGH,
Chairman, Committee on Local Transportation.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE CHICAGO TRACTION SITUATION.

(Dec. 6, 1928, to Dec. 10, 1929.)

December 6, 1928	Appointment of the Citizens' Traction Settlement Committee by Judge James H. Wilkerson of the United States District Court.
December 13, 1928	The appointment of the Citizens' Committee was endorsed by the City Council on a resolution offered by Alderman E. I. Frankhauser and prepared by him, Alderman Joseph B. McDonough and Alderman Oscar F. Nelson.

	Immediately Alderman Joseph B. McDonough, representing the City Council Committee on Local Transportation, called on James Simpson, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, and requested that the Committee make a short but intensive survey of the whole traction situation, urging prompt action in view of the fact that the Illinois legislature would convene in January.
December 15, 1928 to January 15, 1929	The Citizens' Committee, through its counsel, Sidney S. Gorham, then President of the Chicago Bar Association, and Allan T. Gilbert, made a study of all programs with respect to legislation, conferring constantly with representatives of the City and companies in an effort to develop the points of difference between the two and to endeavor to reconcile the divergent viewpoints. They also conferred with all others who had suggestions to make.
January 30, 1929	After extensive public notice and invitations for all to appear who might have ideas on the situation, a full day's public session was held in the court room of Judge Wilkerson at which there appeared 18 witnesses. The meeting adjourned only when there were no more who wished to be heard.
February 28, 1929	The Committee on Local Transportation of the City Council began consideration of the six bills proposing enabling legislation as suggested by the Citizens' Committee.
March 1, 1929	Walter L. Fisher was employed by Judge Wilkerson to give his opinion on the constitutionality and adequacy of the bills.
March 19, 1929	Mr. Fisher made his report to Judge Wilkerson on the constitutionality and adequacy of the bills.
March 25, 1929	The Committee on Local Transportation of the City Council recommended the proposed enabling legislation by a vote of 14 to 1. At the Committee's hearings, to which all of the public interested in transportation were invited to appear and to be heard, 17 persons appeared and spoke, they representing practically every viewpoint prevalent relative to transportation.
March 26, 1929	The City Council, with only one dissenting vote out of 50, endorsed the six bills and also a seventh one which was sponsored by the Council and not by the companies nor by the Citizens' Committee. The one dissenting vote was that of former Alderman Wiley W. Mills, long a municipal ownership advocate.
March 27, 1929	The seven bills were taken to Springfield by the Committee on Local Transportation of the City Council and introduced in both the Senate and House.
April 4, 1929	Members of the Senate and House committee in charge of the Chicago traction bills held a joint session in Springfield at which a number of witnesses were heard.
April 5, 1929	A meeting was held at the La Salle Hotel attended by about 130 civic, commercial and industrial representatives, at which the bills were fully discussed by members of the Citizens' Committee and citizens interested in the settlement.
April 6, 1929	So that all Chicago citizens who were unable to go to Springfield might be heard, the House committee of the legislature handling the Chicago traction bills held a six hour open session in the City Council chambers, at which there appeared 15 proponents and opponents of the transportation bills.
April 9, 1929 (and period following)	Starting with this date, the Citizens' Committee took up each criticism of the bills that had been offered and made a series of public statements which were printed in the newspapers, discussing each situation and leaving the matter open for public discussion.
April 15, 1929	A delegation of more than 200 Chicago citizens representing more than 150 civic and industrial organizations went to Springfield and urged passage of the agreed bills. With them were 150 resolutions offered from as many organizations in Chicago, urging the legislature to enact the bills. A public hearing was held before the House committee at which all who volunteered to appear were permitted to talk.
April 16, 1929	The House committee adopted a resolution extending invitations to the Mayor and former Mayors and all other public officials who have had to do with transportation to appear and give their views.
April 22, 1929	The views of these individuals, either in person or by letter, were heard by the House committee.
April 30, 1929	The House Committee, without a dissenting vote, approved the six agreed bills as well as the Council's bill and another bill suggested by advisers of Governor Emmerson having to do with subway assessments.
May 2, 1929	The transportation bills were advanced to second reading by unanimous consent of the House.
May 7, 1929	All of the bills were advanced to third reading by the House after an extended session.
May 13, 1929	By overwhelming majorities, the House passed the eight traction bills. The largest number of votes cast for any one of the bills was 128 and the smallest number 111. The least number of opposition votes on any bill was 0 and the greatest number 10.
May 21, 1929	The Senate Public Utilities Committee, without a dissenting vote, approved the bills and recommended their passage without amendments. The action followed a three hour public hearing. Appearing in behalf of the bills were Attorney-General Carlstrom, Sidney S. Gorham and representatives of civic and industrial organizations. A half dozen opponents were there, most of them representing municipal ownership organizations.

May 23, 1929 The bills reached second reading in the Senate.

May 28, 1929 The bills were passed by the Senate to third reading by decisive votes. The seventh bill (City 40-year bill) was amended so that it did not conflict with the Terminable Permit bill. The largest vote against any of the motions to table any amendment was 37 (Yea) to 9 (No).

May 29, 1929 All of the bills were passed by the Senate by votes averaging 10 to 1. The Terminable Permit bill passed by a vote of 41-4; the Home Rule bill, 38-7; the Unification bill, 40-5; the Subways bill, 38-3; the bill removing the 20-year limitation on term franchises, 43-4; Amendment to the Railroad Act, 42-2; Term grants up to 40-years, 43-2; bill extending payment of special assessments for subways from twenty to forty years, 42-2.

June 12, 1929 Governor Emmerson held a public hearing on the bills at Springfield. Arguments favoring the bills were made by representatives of practically every important civic and business organization of Chicago. Practically the only opponent was John M. Harlan, an attorney, representing the Lisman interests of New York City.

June 19, 1929 Governor Emmerson signed House Bills 509, 510, 511, 512, 514, 515 and 737 and Senate Bill 484, the latter being substituted for House Bill 513. The Governor made a public statement in which he said that he had promised Chicago during his campaign that if it would come with an agreement on legislation, he and the legislature would give it to the city, and that nothing had been offered since the bills had passed in the House and Senate by large majorities to indicate that he should not sign them and that he felt it to be his duty to do so.

June 20, 1929 The Citizens' Committee issued a statement recommending aggressive action toward final settlement of the transportation problem. This statement discussed valuation of the Elevated and Surface Lines, the Committee expressing the belief that the total figure should not be more than $261,857,858.89. The Committee's recommendation as to valuation of the Surface Lines was as follows:

North and West Side Lines	$94,922,509.48
South Side Lines	69,685,349.45

the basis of these figures being the City purchase price of the Surface Lines as fixed in the 1907 franchise, plus additions. The Committee stated that the Elevated roads' figure for rate making purposes and for purchase should not exceed the book value, this as of February 28, 1929, being a little more than $97,000.000.

June 21, 1929 The services of Walter L. Fisher to assist the City in the drafting of the franchise were obtained.

June 24, 1929 The Council committee on local transportation approved the appointment of a committee composed of George Woodruff, Vice-Chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, Joshua D'Esposito, Consulting Engineer of the Chicago Daily News and Union Station Company and Col. A. A. Sprague, Vice-Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, which was named to study the valuation of the Elevated Lines. Allan T. Gilbert was made secretary of this committee.

On June 28 this committee held its first meeting and estimated that its work would require six weeks for completion.

July 1, 1929 On resolution offered by Alderman Frankhauser and unanimously passed by the Committee on Local Transportation, the Citizens' Committee was invited to analyze all data collected in the past and to offer its suggestion to the Transportation Committee as to the type of ordinance which it believed was necessary to proceed with the organization of a unified comprehensive transportation system. The resolution provided that Sidney S. Gorham and Allan T. Gilbert, together with Walter L. Fisher, be asked to co-operate in the drafting of such an ordinance.

July 3, 1929 The Citizens' Committee started sessions on the drafting of a "franchise for consolidation".

July 9, 1929 At a conference attended by Alderman McDonough, Col. Sprague, Walter L. Fisher, Maj. R. F. Kelker, Jr., John G. Drennan, Alderman Oscar F. Nelson, Alderman Jacob M. Arvey, Sidney S. Gorham and Allan T. Gilbert a statement of fundamentals upon which an ordinance could be based was adopted. These fundamentals were prepared by Maj. R. F. Kelker, Jr., Engineer for the Local Transportation Committee, and John G. Drennan, Asst. Corporation Counsel, and were as follows:

Service-at-Cost.

The following items should comprise cost of service:

(a) Operating expenses, including taxes.

(b) Payments into renewal and damage reserve funds, and also into such other reserve funds as may be fixed by the grant.

(c) A reasonable return to be allowed to the company on its investment.

(d) Compensation to the city.

Home Rule Regulation.

The ordinance should provide for the fullest amount of home-rule regulation authorized by the enabling legislation effective July 1, 1929.

City Purchase.

The terms and conditions of purchase should be provided for in the grant as authorized by House Bill No. 509.

Subways.

The construction program should include the expansion of the unified property by the building of such subways as may be required for the development and efficient operation of the transportation system, in conformity with House Bills No. 512 and No. 737.

Terms of Grant.

The City Council in its grant should fix:

(a) Initial purchase price of value.

(b) Initial construction program including subways.

(c) Initial rates of fare.

(d) Initial per cent of gross revenues to be set aside for renewal and depreciation funds.

(e) Initial per cent of gross revenues to be set aside for damage-reserve fund.

(f) Initial per cent of gross revenues to be set aside for any other reserve funds provided for in the grant.

(g) Effective provisions for amortization.

(h) Obligation as to streets and public improvements, and

(i) All elements of cost of service.

The fundamentals were submitted to William H. Hammond and George W. Wisner, engineering experts for the Citizens' Committee, for analysis.

July 11, 1929 The transportation companies asked for a definite statement from the City on its policy with reference to subways. The companies' statement referred to the statement of fundamentals on this phase as being "indistinct" and asked specifically whether it was the intention to build city-owned subways which would be equipped and operated by the new company.

July 12, 1929 The Committee on Local Transportation appointed a sub-committee to prepare a terminable permit for a consolidation of the transit companies on the basis of the fundamentals as outlined on July 9. The sub-committee was composed of Alderman E. I. Frankhauser, John Toman, Jacob Arvey, James B. Bowler, O. F. Nelson and Joseph B. McDonough. The appointment was made on motion of Alderman Arvey. The motion directed the sub-committee to invite the co-operation and assistance of the Citizens' Traction Settlement Committee, its legal counsel and engineering experts, Attorney Walter L. Fisher, legal representatives and engineers of the transportation companies, Maj. R. F. Kelker, Jr., engineer for the Committee on Local Transportation, and John G. Drennan, Special Asst. Corporation Counsel.

July 17, 1929 Col. A. A. Sprague, in addressing the Junior Association of Commerce, declared that the City now had the legislative authority it needed to settle the traction question and urged prompt preparation of an ordinance for submission to the people. He declared that "we will need the help of every public-spirited citizen in educating the people to the merits of a good ordinance and we will expect them to be just as active in opposition to a bad ordinance".

July 20, 1929 The committee on local transportation of the City Council instructed Alderman E. I. Frankhauser, chairman of the sub-committee on drafting of suggestions for an ordinance, to proceed at once to prepare a draft, calling upon John G. Drennan, counsel for the Local Transportation Committee, Sidney S. Gorham and Allan T. Gilbert, counsel for the Citizens' Traction Settlement Committee, Walter L. Fisher, special counsel for Judge James H. Wilkerson, Maj. R. F. Kelker, Jr., engineer for the Local Transportation Committee and Messrs. G. M. Wisner, W. H. Hammond, D. A. Wallace and E. J. Noonan for assistance and advice.

July 22, 1929 The City Council Committee on Local Transportation decided to investigate the question of subways in order to arrive at a definite understanding as to the kind of subway desired.

July 24, 1929 The Chicago Subway Engineering Company submitted a proposal to the Committee on Local Transportation for the construction of a subway and the purchase of the transportation lines. Joseph Mantell, president of the company, explained that his plan provided for the development of a $800,000,000 transportation system. Subways would be built at a cost of $260,000,000, the existing transportation lines would be purchased for $262,000,000.

July 28, 1929 The companies joined in a statement of their views to the aldermanic sub-committee as to what the ordinance should provide. Briefly, it was:

1. A unified transportation system.

2. Terminable permit reserving to the city the right to purchase at any time at a price and terms stated in the ordinance.

3. Agreed valuation of the properties to be known as the initial capital, the cost of all expenditures for extensions and betterments to be added to the initial capital value.

4. Initial rates of fare to be specified in the ordinance but the rates to be subject to the jurisdiction of the local transit commission.

5. Reasonable rate of return on the capital value, the initial rate to be specified in the ordinance and to continue until changed by order of the local transit commission.

6. Agreement by the company to make extensions.

7. Agreement by the City to construct subways, the company to equip and operate them and the cost of such equipment to be added to the company's capital value.

8. The ordinance to provide for compensation to the City for use of the streets and subways, to be placed in a special fund which may be used for:

   (a) Construction of specified initial subways.

   (b) Amortization of the company's capital account.

   (c) For construction by the city of subway extensions.

9. The companies agree to organize under the Illinois laws and acquire the Elevated and Surface lines properties at a price which will, in the aggregate, not exceed the initial capital value as fixed in the ordinance.

August 1, 1929 James D. Stover, engineer for the Chicago Tube Transit Company, which is headed by William J. Newman, appeared before the council sub-committee and proposed that the City place its $55,000,000 traction fund in the hands of a trustee to invest the money in securities at 4%. Through compound interest the fund would grow, he said, and in 35 years there would be an amount equal to that required to retire the cost of the bores.

August 1-13, 1929 Daily hearings were held in the office of Walter L. Fisher, attended by attorneys for the companies, City heads of City Council Transportation Committees. Mr. Fisher contended for an agreed rate of return on present investment, new money for extensions at cost. The companies asked a just and reasonable return on all monies invested, the rate to be fixed by the local transit commission.

August 7, 1929 Col. A. A. Sprague, Acting Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, issued a statement urging thorough investigation of the financial question and asking for more speed in the preparation of an ordinance.

August 10, 1929 Governor Emmerson appointed six members of the State Commerce Commission and pointed out that one of the important matters that this Commission must pass upon is the proposed settlement of the traction ordinance.

August 13, 1929 Negotiations halted, the reason being that no progress was being made on drafting of provisions in the ordinance relating to the subjects of

1. Rate of return on investment.

2. Financial structure of the new transit corporation.

The rate of return was the principal subject of controversy.

August 15, 1929 On invitation of the council sub-committee on transportation, Col. Sprague met with it and suggested a committee of five to hold hearings and recommend an acceptable line of action. He characterized the trouble as being purely financial. The members of the committee selected were:

Charles M. Thompson, Dean of College of Commerce, University of Illinois, as chairman.

John E. Carroll, banker.
Victor A. Olander, Vice-President, Illinois Federation of Labor.
John Stuart, President, Quaker Oats Company.
David A. Crawford, President, Pullman Company.

August 20, 1929 The so-called "Dead-lock Committee" held its first session. Two plans for financing the new consolidated company were presented by outside interests. C. H. Wilmerding, investment banker, presented a plan that would spend $35,000,000 in extensions in four to six years, the return being limited to 6.315% and additional moneys to be had at 6.5% with an added 1% for amortization. William Hughes Clarke, also in the securities business, advocated a return half way between 7% and the coupon rate on first mortgage bonds, or an average of about 6.25%.

August 21, 1929 William Hammond, chief statistician of the Illinois Commerce Commission, testifying before the Committee, said that a fixed fare and fixed rate of return in the same franchise would be ridiculous.

August 22, 1929

Witnesses before the deadlock committee were Joseph E. Otis, President of the Central Trust Company, and A. W. Harris, Chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, who urged that a financial plan flexible enough to meet changing conditions be adopted. They claimed that the ability to make extensions rested entirely on whether securities could be sold. Tomaz F. Deuther advocated flexibility in the financial plan.

August 23, 1929

Melvin A. Traylor and Frank O. Wetmore of the First National Bank and Thomas Conway, Jr., president of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad Company, were witnesses. Mr. Traylor and Mr. Wetmore said that traction securities have been in public disfavor for a number of years and they urged that no fixed financial plan be placed in the franchise, saying that it would be a fatal mistake inasmuch as no one can predict what conditions will be in six months or six years. Harold Foreman, of the Foreman National Bank, also urged that no rigid provisions be placed in the ordinance. They stated it would take some time to re-establish traction credit with investors.

August 26, 1929

George M. Reynolds, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company, urged that there be no co-partnership between the City and transportation company and that as little control as possible be placed over the companies. John J. O'Brien, President of H. M. Byllesby and Company, expressed similar views, saying that in view of the fact that the regulatory body would control the company's profits, there should be no iron-bound franchise provisions. J. M. Harlan, representing the Lisman interests of New York, was a witness and urged that amortization was absolutely necessary.

August 27, 1929

H. L. Ickes read a statement telling the committee it was wasting its time and had no authority. He offered no suggestions as to what should be done. Cyrus K. Mohler of the Public Ownership League, occupied two hours propounding municipal ownership. A. W. Stanmeyer, who said he did not have the authority to represent the Cook County Real Estate Board but was appearing as an officer of that board, offered a statement proposing that the Surface Lines be revalued and dealt with apart from the bus and Elevated properties. E. H. Burke, President of the Property Owners' Traction Association of Chicago, urged that a liberal ordinance be adopted that would bring about needed extensions.

August 28, 1929

William J. Wardall, of Bonbright and Company, appeared as a witness and recommended a very flexible ordinance leaving the rate of return on invested capital to the management and the commission.

September 5, 1929

The companies made an extended statement to the deadlock committee offering $200,000,000 of extensions in the first ten years of the life of the proposed consolidated company, the City to construct $100,000,000 of subways. The financial structure was discussed at length. The companies pointed out the difficulty of dealing with the 28 different kinds of securities involved in the present capitalization. In the new company it was stated that there should be not to exceed five or six issues. It pointed out that the task of the companies was to refinance the $137,000,000 of first mortgage bonds and $125,000,000 in junior securities, this meaning that the company would have to compete in the money market against other businesses. It stated that the companies could not be placed in a financial straight-jacket if its success and stability were to be insured. It claimed that the company should have the opportunity of a flexible franchise such as would permit it to build up the proper capitalization and obtain money at the lowest cost. Rates of fare, the companies suggested, would continue the present schedule for two years. On rate of return, the companies desired one that will be sufficient and adequate to establish and maintain a high degree of credit. Compensation to the city should be not to exceed 3% of the gross receipts, the companies stated.

September 7, 1929

The Elevated valuation committee, composed of Col. A. A. Sprague, Joshua D'Esposito and George Woodruff, made a report to the Council Local Transportation Committee in which it placed a value for the Elevated properties of $95,500,000, or approximately $2,340,000 below the book value. The valuators took as a base the figure $86,250,000 on the Elevated property by the Public Utilities Commission and made certain deductions and additions in arriving at this figure, allowing only $2,300,000 for non-operating property. As a check on the valuation, the committee also reported it had taken the cost of reproduction of a new Elevated system and then deducted cost of track elevation, elimination of curves, signal systems, new cars, etc., and claimed that the top figure would be $155,000,000, from which a deduction for improvements would leave a figure of $96,500,000. It said that while the companies claim a valuation of more than $140,000,000 as a reproduction cost, it was its opinion that the figure would be $130,000,000 and that in private business that figure would probably be sustained as the present value.

September 10, 1929

The valuation committee's report on the value of the elevated properties was submitted to the City Council Local Transportation Committee. Objections to the valuation of $95,500,000 were made by Patrick J. Lucey, attorney for the elevated lines, on the ground that proper consideration had not been given to present day prices, that the working capital of $1,000,000 had been eliminated, although it is invested in equipment and that an additional $350,000 had been pared off without any good reason.

September 13, 1929

The Frankhauser sub-committee recommended to the Council Local Transportation Committee that the valuation of the Elevated properties be fixed at $95,500,000. Maj. R. F. Kelker, Jr., engineer for the committee, told the aldermen that $95,500,000 is a fair valuation.

September 16, 1929 The Frankhauser sub-committee recommended the city's "purchase price" to be placed upon the Surface Lines in a consolidated transit system as $164,607,859.79 as of February 1, 1929. Maj. Kelker stated that this was the city's purchase price under the 1907 ordinance.

September 17, 1929 Hearings were started to give the various civic and business organizations in all sections of the city an opportunity to be heard as to the extensions their neighborhoods needed. South side business organizations, on this date, asked for extensions which would cost approximately $152,000,000. The extensions included:

50.65 miles—Rapid transit lines.
73.05 miles—Street car lines.
27.50 miles—Motor bus lines.
3.90 miles—Auxiliary subways.

155.10

Those heard included H. H. Haylett, Managing Vice-President, Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce; Theodore M. Becker, Woodlawn Business Men's Association; Walter Roy, South End Chamber of Commerce; Frank M. Stanley, East Side Chamber of Commerce; E. J. Ryan, South Shore Chamber of Commerce; H. U. Rosenberg, Stockyards Business and Civic Association; E. H. Burke, Property Owners' Traction Association; Oscar Romel, South Chicago Chamber of Commerce; W. B. Cuyler, South Side Improvement Clubs.

September 19, 1929 North and West side business men's organizations were heard on extensions. They requested approximately $160,000,000 of extensions, including:

47.30 miles—Rapid transit lines.
120.75 miles—Surface lines.
8.75 miles—Motor bus lines.

176.80

(North, West and South side requests were exclusive of Loop subway.)

Witnesses who appeared were: O. W. Holmes, Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs; M. James Flynn, Central Northwest Business Men's Association; H. J. Ruggles, West Town Chamber of Commerce; F. C. Gosswiller, West Ridge Improvement Association; Emmet T. Flood, 50th Ward Transportation Club; Marcus A. Colberg, Northwest Side Civic Federation; Tomaz F. Deuther, North West Side Commercial Association; John C. Bowers, Central Uptown Chicago Association; Mrs. W. H. Wright, Suburban Council of Real Estate Boards; Albert F. Keeney, North Avenue Business Men's Association; Frank J. Bilek, Southwest Side Business Association; Al Beaudry, North Austin Club.

September 21, 1929 Maj. Kelker made public a summarization of extension requests showing that the various business and civic organizations had requested added transportation totaling 332 miles which he estimated would cost $312,000,000. This was exclusive of the $100,000,000 to be spent for a Loop subway.

September 23, 1929 The City Council Local Transportation Committee unanimously approved the report of the Frankhauser sub-committee on valuations of the Surface and Elevated Lines. Action was taken on a verbal report of the sub-committee. The committee approved the figure of $95,500,000 for the properties of the Chicago Rapid Transit Company and $164,580,285, plus additions and betterments made since January 31, 1929, for the Surface Lines.

October 4, 1929 The so-called deadlock committee made a report to the Citizens' Committee in which it declared that the immediate necessity was the appointment by the companies of a reorganization committee to formulate a consolidation agreement. Other major recommendations were that there be a determination of surface, rapid transit and bus extensions to be made and the location, character and extent of subways. Regarding a financial structure, the committee stated that it must be such as will insure the obtaining of the large amount of money necessary for extensions and that if not adequate, the discount at which securities could be sold or the added interest rate to be paid would be such as to be a hardship to the car riders and that the new company cannot be unduly restricted as to earnings. It stated that no plan had been suggested for financing subways which did not involve the use of the City Traction Fund and some percentage of the gross receipts of the new company. It suggested that the rate of fare be left to the transit commission to determine as a matter of law as well as of sound policy. It stated that the rate of return must be such as to make securities attractive and provide adequate protection for investors.

October 5, 1929 James Simpson, in transmitting the deadlock committee's report to Alderman Joseph B. McDonough, emphasized in his letter the urgency of a reorganization committee. He stated that necessarily such a committee, to obtain results, must work out a financial structure and obtain agreement to it. He stated that this committee must also prepare the plan upon which the present holders will exchange their securities for securities in the new corporation. He suggested that work again proceed on the preparation of an ordinance in the belief that most of it could be agreed upon while the exact text of the financial features was being worked out.

October 14, 1929

Samuel Insull asked Albert W. Harris, Arthur Reynolds, Frank O. Wetmore and H. L. Stuart (the latter to act as chairman) to constitute themselves as a committee to make a thorough investigation of all phases of the subject with a view of reaching a conclusion as to the financial basis on which a reorganization of the Elevated and Surface Lines would be possible. The statement issued by Mr. Insull (in full) was as follows:

"With a view to assisting in making progress towards a final settlement of the traction problem so necessary for the welfare of the city, I have asked the following gentlemen to constitute themselves a committee to study the financial aspects of the situation:

"Albert W. Harris, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank.

"Arthur Reynolds, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company.

"Frank O. Wetmore, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank.

"H. L. Stuart, Halsey, Stuart and Company, chairman.

"I am promised a prompt decision as to whether the proposed committee will undertake the work. If the committee agrees to function it will begin work immediately, and after a thorough investigation of all phases of the subject, will reach a conclusion as to the financial basis on which a reorganization of the street railways and elevated railways is possible, in their opinion, having due regard for the very large amounts of new money which must be provided to give the City adequate transportation facilities in the future.

"The problems to be considered are many and complicated and it is to be hoped that the end of the preliminary work of this committee (if formed) will result in its consenting to serve as a reorganization committee actually to put into effect a financial plan satisfactory to the City authorities, the community and the many thousands of small investors whose savings are now invested in the local transportation systems, and also to establish the financial basis on which the $250,000,000 needed over the coming years can be raised.

"The committee's work will be undertaken with no selfish motive, but wholly in the endeavor of trying to be of practical and constructive assistance in the settlement of a problem of grave importance to this community."

(The committee appointed agreed to attempt to arrive at a plan.)

October 15, 1929

The sub-committee of engineers appointed on July 12 submitted a report to the Local Transportation Committee of the City Council signed by George M. Wisener, Edward J. Noonan, engineers for the Citizens' Committee, David A. Wallace, engineer for the City, and R. F. Kelker, Jr., engineer representing the Local Transportation Committee. The plan called for the expenditure of $285,610,000 during the first ten years of the proposed franchise. This was devided as follows:

City Cost.
Subway structures		85,610,000
Company Cost.
Subway equipment	5,340,000
Additional elevated tracks	28,243,000
Elevated extensions	62,952,000
Surface line extensions	17,675,000
Cars and other improvements	54,050,000
Contingencies, including replacements and betterments	31,740,000
		200,000,000

For subways during the first ten years the engineers recommended:

1. Four-track State Street subway extending from a four-track connection with the South Side elevated line near 18th street to Chicago avenue.

A two-track subway in Chicago avenue from the State street subway to a connection with the North Side elevated near Chicago avenue.

The estimated cost of this subway was placed at $50,000,000 of which the City would pay $46,710,000 and the company the remainder, by giving 3 per cent of its gross revenue to the City as rental.

2. A West Side subway starting in Milwaukee avenue near Chicago avenue and proceeding toward the Loop to Grand avenue; thence east to Dearborn street, south to Harrison street and west to Blue Island avenue; southwest in Blue Island avenue to 16th street where it would connect with the Metropolitan elevated near Paulina street. At the Milwaukee Avenue-Chicago Avenue end the subway would become a four-track elevated line extending north-west along Milwaukee avenue to the Logan Square branch.

The cost of this subway would be $40,950,000, of which $38,900,000 would be paid by the City.

These subways would be equipped by the company at a cost of $5,340,000.

Elevated extensions proposed included:

A mid-city trunk line along Ashland avenue extending south from the Ravenswood branch to 95th street.

Extension of the Logan Square branch along Milwaukee avenue to Lawrence avenue.

Extension of the Humboldt Park branch from Lawndale avenue to Austin avenue.

Extension of the 63rd street line via Stony Island avenue and South Chicago avenue to 93rd street.

The building of a four-track elevated along Milwaukee avenue from a connection with the Logan Square branch at Ellen street to a point near Ogden avenue, two tracks to be connected with the West Side subway and two to be extended along Milwaukee avenue to a connection with the Lake street elevated at Des Plaines street.

A two-track elevated to be built to extend from a connection with the Douglas Park branch near Paulina street and with the proposed Ashland avenue line along Blue Island avenue to a point near 16th street, where a connection would be made with the subway.

Additional tracks to existing elevated lines were proposed for Lake street, Garfield Park branch, Ravenswood branch, Douglas Park branch, South Side elevated, Humboldt Park branch and Logan Square branch.

Exceptions were taken to the outlined program by members of the Local Transportation Committee who sought to obain other extensions for their districts and action on the report was delayed until the committee had before it a chart showing extensions of all facilities and until more details of the reorganization plan of the company were made public.

October 15, 1929

Work on the drafting of an ordinance was resumed in the office of Walter L. Fisher after a delay caused by the impasse on the financial structure of a new company.

To the Honorable, the Mayor and the City Council of the City of Chicago:

I am attaching hereto copies of reports submitted by Division Fire Marshal Joseph A. Mackey, Chief Thomas W. Anderson, Chief of Seventh Battalion, and Lieutenant Walter J. Albers, Hook and Ladder Company No. 5.

Yours very truly,

To the Fire Commissioner:

Attention: Bureau of Fire Control and Extinguishment.

SIR—I respectfully report that I responded to a still alarm given to Hook and Ladder No. 5, Engine No. 18, to 1233 South Halsted street, October 15, 1929, at 9:24 A. M.

Upon my arrival at fire, I ordered Box 326 pulled at 9:25 A. M., and a few minutes later I pulled a second alarm. I saw a man at the 3rd floor window and ordered Hook and Ladder No. 5 to raise a 36-foot ladder and placed it in the window, the man took a hold of the top of ladder and was climbing out when he feel back either through panic or was overcome from the fumes of the celluloid umbrella handles stored on the 2nd floor. The flames swept through the 2nd and 3rd floors following an explosion; the flames shot through the 2nd floor windows and burned the 36-foot ladder. I ordered Lieutenant Alberts of Hook and Ladder No. 5 up the ladder when the man fell back, but he could not pass the 2nd floor windows on account of the flames.

I ordered the Lieutenant down and ladder removed and life net was placed under the window, thinking he would jump in the net, but he fell back unconscious. I went up the front stairway and Engine No. 18 was working on the 2nd floor. I ordered them up the burning stairway to the 3rd floor, and fought the fire to the front of the building and found the man lying on the floor about 15 feet from the front window, and ordered Hook and Ladder No. 5 to use artificial respiration.

Mr. Ben Lieberman, who occupied the 3rd floor, told me after the fire that Mr. Louis Baliewski had left the building with three more employes and went back after his coat, by the means of the rear fire escape and was cut off by the fire and went to the front window, where he fell on the floor. He was taken to the County Hospital by Ambulance No. 2, where he died a few moments later.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) THOMAS ANDERSON,
Chief of 7th Battalion.

FIRE DEPARTMENT,

CHICAGO, October 17, 1929.

First Division Headquarters
Truck Co. No. 2.

To the Fire Commissioner:

Attention: Bureau of Fire Control and Entinguishment.

SIR—I respectfully report that I responded to an alarm of fire from Station 326 on October 15, 1929, at 9:25 A. M. from headquarters of Truck 2, Washington boulevard and Clinton street, which is about a mile and a half from location of the fire which was at 1233 South Halsted street, taking about three minutes to reach the fire. Truck 5 had a still alarm on this fire at 9:24 A. M.

Upon my arrival at fire Chief Thomas Anderson of the 7th Battalion informed me he had just called for a second alarm. Fire was coming out of all the windows on the two upper floors, making it impossible to reach upper floors by means of ladders; it was also impossible to reach upper floors by means of front or rear stairway.

Chief Thomas Anderson informed me that upon his arrival at the fire there was a man in a third floor window of the burning building and that the fire was coming out of the windows on both floors. He ordered a 36-foot ladder raised to the window and told the man to get out on the ladder, but he would not do so. No doubt, the man was afraid of the flames which were coming out of the second floor and which were so fierce that the ladder became ignited and which made it impossible for a fireman to reach him by means of the ladder. Had the man done as ordered by Chief Anderson the firemen could have swung ladder away from building after he had got out on ladder far enough away to avoid extreme heat.

Chief Thomas Anderson also ordered the life net set in position in front of the building and after the man failed to get out on the ladder he ordered him to jump into net which he also failed to do.

Lines were worked up front and rear stairway and also in the windows on the front side of building to extinguish fire.

Just as soon as fire was cooled enough to allow firemen to enter the building they did so and found the man lying on the floor unconscious. In my opinion every effort was made to rescue this man.

The building was three stories in height of brick in front and frame in the rear of ordinary construction, 25 feet wide by about 75 feet long.

I have learned that the name of the man whose life was lost was Louis Baliewski.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) JOSEPH A. MACKEY,
Chief 1st Division.

CHICAGO, October 28, 1929.

Hook and Ladder Co. No. 5.

To the Fire Commissioner:

Attention: Bureau of Fire Control and Extinguishment.

SIR—I respectfully report that this company responded to a still alarm given by the Fire Alarm Office to 1233 South Halsted street, on October 15, 1929, at 9:24 A. M., and on nearing the location an occupant of the 3rd floor was straddling the window-sill and the two upper floors were enveloped in smoke. I immediately ordered a 36-foot ladder raised as did Chief Anderson, 7th Battalion, who was standing in front of the building on our arrival. (This ladder as well as the life net is carried on the side of the apparatus nearest the building.)

As the top of the ladder was lowered to the window the man reached for it in preparing to descend as myself and the driver, Earl Tennert, were about to ascend.

I ascended but a few rungs of the ladder when a terrific blast or explosion occurred on the 2nd floor immediately below this man and he stepped back from the window. This blast showered the truck with bits of broken glass and the heat was intense enough to burn the ladder opposite the 2nd floor so badly that it was later condemned besides melting away parts of the cornice. The 2nd floor and parts of the 3rd floor then instantly burst into flames and I realized that rescuing the man by means of the ladder was impossible for the moment at least and I ordered the life net spread.

As the net was placed in position we shouted for the man to jump but he did not jump or appear at the window again and after hose lines were in operation the driver and I made several more attempts to get into the 3rd floor window by Chief Anderson's orders, but the heat, dense smoke and fumes of the celluloid made it impossible to get very far in on the floor especially as we could not see. Later on we found that the man was not near the window at all.

By Division Marshal Mackey's orders I then raised the 50-foot Bangor ladder to the roof and the company broke a skylight and a window on top floor (North wall) with pike poles and as Truck 14 and part of another company had gotten up there already by means of the rear fire escape and were opening the roof and had sufficient help we descended to the 3rd floor where Chief Anderson met me and said, "Let's get that man". We found him some distance from the window where he was last seen and I picked him up on my shoulders and started out with him as the canvas stretcher arrived and we then placed him in it and carried him to No. 1235 South Halsted and worked artificial respiration on him until he was ordered to the hospital in the Fire Department ambulance.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) WALTER J. ALBERS,
Lieutenant.

(5) Whether or not the United States District Court has the right, in the proceeding now there pending, to disregard as items of operating expense items which have been charged to operating expense with the sanction of the Illinois Commerce Commission;

Protest against a Proposed Reduction in the Number and Compensation of City Employes.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was ordered published and referred to the Committee on Finance:

CHICAGO, December 17, 1929.

Mr. Patrick Sheridan Smith, City Clerk, and Members of the City Council, Chicago, Illinois:

DEAR SIRS—The Chicago Federation of Labor is intensely interested in the various departments of the City of Chicago, and now it is common talk that the departments are going to be seriously hampered by insufficient funds to operate them successfully.

We also understand that the number of men and their compensation are to be seriously reduced. This appears to us to be a rather unscientific way of maintaining and operating an efficient, up-to-date city administration.

We represent a large portion of the home-owning population of this city and we know that our membership is absolutely opposed to the curtailment of any of the functions of the City through reducing the forces and slashing salaries.

The President of the United States had to meet a similar situation in the affairs of the nation, one very much like the situation with which Chicago finds itself confronted, but he did not proceed to add to the dilemma by reducing forces and cutting wages. He did exactly the reverse and called on all good citizens to meet the crisis squarely, and the most practical way to do this was not to curtail employment, but to enter immediately into every activity that would keep men at work and put those who are unemployed, to work. In this way, when the earnings of the people are put back into regular channels of commerce, the predicament in which the nation finds itself, will soon pass away.

We recommend to the Members of the City Council, as well as to the Mayor of Chicago, the suggestions of the President of the United States, and we urge the most earnest consideration of every possible plan of relieving the needs of the City, believing as we do, that the City should be the last institution to add to the ranks of the unemployed, and never should agree to reduce the standard of living, by reducing the wages of its employes.

Very sincerely,

CHICAGO FEDERATION OF LABOR,
(Signed) JOHN FITZPATRICK,
President.
(Signed) E. N. NOCKELS,
Secretary.

The following is said ordinance as passed:

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Section 1. That an ordinance passed by the City Council December 2, 1918, and appearing upon pages 1248-49 of the Journal of the Proceedings of said date, granting permission to Bauer & Black, a corporation, its successors and assigns, to construct, maintain and operate a single elevated switch track in and along the first north-and-south ten-foot public alley west of Federal street beginning at a point on the west line of said alley approximately one hundred twenty-five (125) feet south of the south line of West 25th street; thence running in a northerly direction in and along said alley to the south line of said West 25th street be and the same is hereby repealed.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

In the Matter of a Settlement of Suits for Taxes against Certain Insurance Companies.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was ordered published and referred to the Committee on Finance:

Department of Law,
Chicago, December 9, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—In pursuance of the authority which your Honorable Body gave us to proceed with the settlement of the suits against the various fire, marine and inland navigation insurance companies that owed taxes under Section 30 of the Law of 1869, we proceeded as follows:

There were 210 companies which, owed taxes for the years 1923 to 1927, for which the settlement was proposed. Of these, settlement has been effected by 174. There were judgments entered and paid on September 18, 1929, for 99 of them, and judgments entered and paid on December 5, 1929, for 75 of them. The total amount of taxes collected from these 174 companies was $1,714,600.80.

Of the amounts thus collected, $589,671.88 consisted of City of Chicago taxes, and $581,564.16 consisted of school taxes. The total City and School taxes turned into the City Treasury therefrom being $1,171,235.04. The remaining 36 companies which have not paid, will probably have to be sued. They amount to perhaps one-sixth of the total amounts that were due. The amount actually extended against them is approximately $650,000.00.

If the claims were settled on the same basis as the remainder have been settled, the amount that would be collected would be approximately $320,000.00, of which $112,000.00 would belong the the City and about $108,000.00 would belong to the School Fund.

At the time that the insurance companies began contesting the current tax on the theory that it was invalid and could not be sustained, Mr. Hiram T. Gilbert was employed for the purpose of handling the prosecution of the claims. Inasmuch as this was a matter which did not enter into the compensation for the back taxes to be recovered, Mr. Gilbert has been allowed $300.00 per month, for which sum appropriations were made during the years 1928 and 1929. Mr. Gilbert is willing to continue the work for the same compensation, but if he is to be employed provision will have to be made for paying him for at least the first six months of the year 1930. Since he has handled this matter for the last four or five years, we think it would be well to continue his employment until the whole matter has been settled up.

We therefore recommend that due provision may be made for the payment of Mr. Gilbert's services for the first half of 1930, and that authority be given to the Corporation Counsel to continue his employment.

Yours truly,

(Signed) LEON HORNSTEIN,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Statement Concerning the Report of the Special Master to the U. S. Supreme Court in the Lake Levels Case.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was, together with the statement transmitted therewith, ordered published and referred to the Committee on Finance:

DEPARTMENT OF LAW,
CHICAGO, December 18, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

GENTLEMEN—Enclosed herewith I am transmitting to your Honorable Body copy of a statement which I issued today regarding the report of Special Master Charles Evans Hughes to the Supreme Court of the United States in the Lake Levels Case.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) SAMUEL A. ETTELSON,
Corporation Counsel.

The Corporation Counsel on May 20, 1929, wrote to Mr. Frank F. Winans, President, The Chicago Association of Commerce, as follows:

> "* * * Let us hope that the City's prompt action in attempting to intervene in the pending litigation before the Supreme Court of the United States will not be barren of results, and that in the final analysis we may find the City's rights and interests so safeguarded by the findings and recommendations of the Special Master and the decree of the Court, that future litigation on the part of the City in the protection of its rights may be wholly unnecessary."

The Corporation Counsel of the City of Chicago is very happy to learn that Special Master Charles Evans Hughes has made a recommendation in his report which will prevent, if adopted by the Supreme Court of the United States, the pollution and contamination of the drinking water of the people of Chicago.

It will be remembered that the Corporation Counsel presented a petition for leave to intervene in the Lake Level litigation for the purpose of preventing the pollution of the drinking water of the people of our City. The Special Assistant Attorney General of the State of Wisconsin insisted before the Master, and before the Court, along with other persons representing interests adverse to our City that the court require all sewage effluent to be discharged into Lake Michigan. If this recommendation had been made and an order of court entered pursuant to such recommendation of the Special Master the drinking water of the people of Chicago would have been contaminated and polluted to the injury of the health and to the very life of more than three million people residing in Chicago, and perhaps millions of people residing beyond our City, but in this vicinity.

The petition presented by the Corporation Counsel on behalf of the City was doubtless carefully considered by the Special Master, and its allegations carefully studied by the Supreme Court and we believe that the recommendations of the Master in this regard follow the presentation and the filing of said petition.

This is one of the most important victories ever achieved on behalf of the people of Chicago, because we know that our pure drinking water supply is absolutely vital to the people of Chicago and is essential, not only to the present but to the future well-being, health and life of the people of Chicago and our metropolitan area.

In the Matter of the Decision of the Illinois Supreme Court on the Use of City Streets by Motorbuses.

The City Clerk presented the following memorandum, submitted by the Corporation Counsel, which was ordered published and referred to the Committee on Local Transportation:

The Supreme Court originally decided the case in favor of the Chicago Motor Coach Company and against the City. On a petition for rehearing filed by this office the court granted the rehearing and later handed down an opinion reversing its former decision and holding in favor of the City of Chicago. The Chicago Motor Coach Company thereupon filed a petition for rehearing which was granted and the Supreme Court withdrew its opinion in favor of the City and again decided the case in favor of the Chicago Motor Coach Company. Thereupon this department entered its motion for leave to file another petition for rehearing, which is the motion now denied by the Court.

The City Council had passed an ordinance requiring motor buses to obtain a permit or license by ordinance from the City Council to operate motor buses in the streets of the City. The Chicago Motor Coach Company obtained a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Illinois Commerce Commission permitting them to operate motor buses in the City of Chicago and claimed the right to operate such motor buses in the streets of the City without securing a permit or license from the City Council as provided by the City ordinance. The case involved the question as to whether the Chicago Motor Coach Company had the right to operate its motor buses in the streets of the City solely under the authority of the Illinois Commerce Commission without securing a permit or license therefor from the City Council designating the routes and fixing the terms and conditions under which such buses may be operated. The Supreme Court by its latest decision in this case holds that the consent of the City under said ordinance to the operation of motor buses in its streets is not necessary and that whatever power the City heretofore had in this respect has been taken away from it by the Public Utilities Act and lodged with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

In view of this last decision of our Supreme Court it appears that the only hope of having this power and control over city streets by motor buses restored is by an appeal to the General Assembly for legislation restoring this home rule power to the City.

Veto.

Chris-Craft Water Transit, Inc.: Use of Dock and Wharf.

Honorable William Hale Thompson, Mayor, submitted the following veto message:

Office of the Mayor}
Chicago, December 23, 1929.}

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—I return herewith, without my approval, an order passed by Your Honorable Body at the meeting held December 18, 1929, and appearing on page 1720 of the Journal of the Proceedings of the City Council of said date, purporting to authorize the Commissioner of Compensation to issue to the Chris-Craft Water Transit, Incorporated, a permit for the use of one hundred and forty-seven lineal feet of dock and adjoining wharf, extending southeasterly from the westerly line of North Michigan avenue, for a period of three years, at an annual compensation of $300.00.

I withhold my approval of the said order upon the recommendation of the Law Department and the Harbor Master.

I am advised by the Corporation Counsel that the issuance of such permits is under the control and regulation of the Commissioner of Public Works and the Harbor Master, and not the Department of Compensation.

This order passed Your Honorable Body without Committee consideration, and the Corporation Counsel advises me that the Harbor Master is of the opinion that the compensation for said permit, which is fixed at $300.00 annually in said order, is too low a price for the City to charge.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) Wm. Hale Thompson,
Mayor.

Alderman Toman moved to reconsider the vote by which said vetoed order was passed.

The motion prevailed.

Alderman Toman moved to refer said order to the Committee on Finance.

CITY COMPTROLLER.

Estimates of Revenues and Expenditures for the Year 1930 (Corporate Purposes Fund).

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was, together with the estimates submitted therewith, referred to the Committee on Finance:

Chicago, December 20, 1929.

To the Honorable, the Mayor and Aldermen, in City Council Assembled:

Gentlemen—In accordance with the requirements of Section 43 of The Chicago Municipal Code of 1922, the City Comptroller presents herewith Departmental and Comptroller's Estimates of Appropriations to be made from the Corporate Purposes Fund for the fiscal year of 1930, together with a statement showing the Estimated Resources available for the year 1930, from all sources.

There are also submitted herewith a statement of the Liabilities Outstanding upon which interest is to be paid, and a statement showing the Bonds and City Debts for which appropriations must be made during the year 1930.

Due to many difficulties the Estimates of Appropriations from the Water Fund and Vehicle Tax Fund will be presented at a later date.

SUMMARY

Total of Corporate Fund Appropriations as recommended by the Comptroller	$40,587,735.89
Less salvage of appropriations, on basis of 1929, estimated at 2¾%	1,116,162.71
Estimated net 1930 Expenditures	$39,471,573.18
Estimated Corporate Resources	$39,475,256.00

The Comptroller's Estimate of Appropriations from the Corporate Purposes Fund for 1930, as shown herein, are limited to the resources which the Comptroller estimates the City will have available to spend for such purposes during 1930.

The Comptroller believes the amount of appropriations indicated for ordinary patrolmen and firemen is not sufficient and he strongly recommends that immediate steps be taken by all interested parties concerned to provide requisite funds to maintain at least the force of patrolmen and firemen on the same basis as is now in existence.

The reason the Comptroller makes this recommendation is because he realizes that the ordinary patrolmen, patrolling the streets of the city, and the ordinary firemen are the backbone units of both services and that they represent, unquestionably, the foundation of safety to public life and property; and the necessity of maintaining the morale and discipline of these departments is also intimately concerned in this recommendation.

Under such conditions, the Comptroller is of the opinion that the taxpayers of Chicago will not hesitate for one moment to provide the funds to meet this obligation, especially so when they know that all other expenses of the City have been reduced to the very minimum, even to the point of elimination in some cases, in order to salvage funds for these two items. The Comptroller can conscientiously say that he has no fear whatever of anyone being able to infer that he has been liberal in any of the appropriations he is recommending herein to the City Council. He realizes his recommendations are severe in many ways and will undoubtedly curtail certain essential activities. Even then, he finds it impossible to make both ends meet without the reductions shown.

Never in the history of the City of Chicago has the Corporate Purposes Fund been in the financial straits in which it now finds itself.

The causes or reasons for these conditions can apparently be varied to suit the viewpoint from which they are studied. The Comptroller, however, knows that the present conditions are primarily the result of the existing obsolete system (as established by the Laws of Illinois) of taxation and the methods of appropriating and spending these funds. These faults are primarily the result of the existing hodgepodge of unco-ordinated laws under which this municipality and all other municipalities of the state have been endeavoring to operate. Taxation and revenue laws, which were suited to the simple requirements of pioneer days, have been modified from time to time without evident effort to fit such changes into previous existing laws and the requirements of modern business methods.

In the past, the City has been faced with one financial crisis after another, and City officials, through one or another extemporaneous remedy, have managed to continue through to the next financial crisis. The Comptroller's opinion is that the City will not now be able to continue without prompt legislative relief, and that the laws governing the City's finances and the finances of all taxing bodies in the state must be rectified so that they can be placed upon a business-like system of assessing, collecting, appropriating and expending. It may not be amiss at this point to indicate to the City Council and the citizens of Chicago how ridiculously desperate the financial situation of the City is at the present time. The Comptroller believes that the best method of bringing this intricate picture to the minds of the citizens will be to present the Comptroller's Budget for 1930 as it is presented herein, knowing that under no circumstances can he be accused of liberality in regard to any departmental request in the recommendations shown in such estimates.

Stating the facts briefly, the Comptroller's opinion is that the financial situation of the Corporate Fund indicates that every one interested or concerned with it must start with pure fundamentals used in all good business practice. This is merely common sense and it in turn requires that the true financial problem be presented so that a picture of the entire matter can be easily viewed by those concerned. This is what the Comptroller is attempting to do in these estimates.

The Comptroller's estimate of resources, it will be noted, is based upon the assumption that Assessed Valuations for 1929 and 1930 will be the same as those established for 1928. The estimate of 1928 Valuations have been compiled from information gleaned from various statements made by tax-assessing officials and also those statements that have appeared from time to time in the public press. The Comptroller is estimating no increase in valuations for 1929 or 1930 over those estimated for 1928, for the very simple reason that he has absolutely no information as to what the valuations will be for years subsequent to 1928. Therefore, the most conservative guess which he can now make is that 1928 Valuations will at least be continued without reduction into 1929 and 1930. It is also hoped that the Valuations indicated for 1928 will not be less than those estimated herein when they are finally completed.

It will probably help one to grasp quickly the existing critical financial situation of the City Corporate Fund if the following facts are studied:

It is estimated that there will be available (after deducting the 1929 Deficit) for appropriations for 1930, resources to the extent of....		$39,475,256
The City has debt obligations for which appropriations should normally be made as follows:
Outstanding and unpaid judgments amount to (as of Dec. 2, 1929) ....$	6,082,972
During 1930 the City will have to pay for interest on judgments	304,950
Appropriations will have to be made for payment of interest on the floating debt of the City, represented by tax warrants, all of which are payable from the Corporate Fund, which amounts to....	7,208,220
There will be payable during 1930 public benefits (the portion of certain special assessment improvements which is owed by the City) amounting to	1,282,679
The total of these debt items is		$14,878,821

Deducting the total of these interest and debt obligations from the resources available for appropriations in 1930, we find that there will be available for appropriations for all public services...... $24,596,435

It will be noted that this amount in itself is not even sufficient to meet departmental requests for the Police and Fire Departments alone, for the reason that the Police Department is asking for $18,247,968

and the Fire Department is asking for 10,563,765

The sum of these two items amounting to.... $28,811,733

From consideration of the foregoing, it becomes apparent why the City Comptroller declares that the present financial condition of the Corporate Purposes Fund of the City is ridiculously desperate. Nothing much is going to be accomplished by merely centering our thoughts and desires along the line of finding out and placing the blame for conditions that exist. Nothing will be accomplished of lasting benefit to the taxpayers of Chicago until the present faults of the system of assessing, the methods of doing business and the financing of public services as now established by the laws of Illinois have been remedied. The Comptroller appreciates the fact that undoubtedly there has been serious discrimination in the assessing of property, and also that apparently real estate is carrying more than its just share of the burden of taxation, but the Comptroller cannot see wherein the Corporate Fund of the City of Chicago should suffer as the result of inadequate statutory provisions which in his opinion are the fundamental reasons for the City's critical financial condition.

The Comptroller presents the thought that indiscriminate criticism will not help in the solution of this problem, and it is believed that the citizens of Chicago should endeavor to create some yardstick with which comparisons can be made between expenditures of the various taxing bodies to which they contribute funds in the form of taxes. From knowledge gained through many years' experience with financial matters, the conclusion arrived at along this line of thought is that the portion of the taxpayer's dollar given to the various taxing bodies is a good sound basis of comparison.

Following this line of reasoning, attention is called to the fact that the portions of the taxpayer's dollar paid to the Sanitary District, the various Park Commissioners, School buildings and certain other governmental activities, have variously INCREASED from 25% to 300%, whereas that portion given to the City Corporate Purposes Fund has DECREASED by nearly one-third. The thought behind this comparison is that apparently proper distribution of the taxpayer's dollar has not been had in the past, when such big variations over a period of years are indicated.

The Comptroller desires again to call to the City Council's attention the fact that the Comptroller's Estimates are not in all cases what he believes are the normal requirements, as it was easily appreciated that police and fire protection and other major vital public services should be maintained first. Conscientious effort to follow this policy has shown that such vital services cannot be maintained even on a greatly reduced basis unless radical reductions are made in the departments of the less important services.

The Comptroller does not believe that any criticism can be engendered against the policy of cutting the authorizations to spend—namely appropriations—to the limit of the estimated resources of revenue. In other words, all appropriations have to be cut to the limit of the resources available to pay them, even if it hurts.

This is thought to be the only way in which a comprehensive picture can be developed to show the exact status of this fund under present conditions, and it is also good sound business sense.

It is the Comptroller's opinion that funds may eventually be made available through the only channel possible, namely, legislative relief, in order to continue some of those services of the City which are indicated as being radically cut herein. The Comptroller has in mind those services which, though not as vitally necessary as Police and Fire protection, are nevertheless necessary under modern conditions of living.

Another fundamental which has been taken into consideration by the Comptroller is that one which past experience has shown to be sound, viz., that it is very easy to appropriate, at any time authorized by the legislature, additional resources that may thereby be made available; but in case such resources are not made available, it would seem to be decidedly improper to have authorized such excess appropriations, as in the past it has been found very difficult and well nigh impossible to prevent authorized appropriations from being used, regardless of the amount of cash the City might lack.

It will be noted that the Comptroller's Estimate of Resources has been reduced by the absorption of the deficit as of December 31, 1929. This is done for the simple reason that no business corporation can continue activities of a large corporation such as the City, without taking care, at the earliest possible moment, of unpaid obligations of one form or another, which total as much as 20% or more of the City's business. Under past financing methods such deficit actually would so reduce the cash resources available for 1930.

The available resources do not permit recommending the payment of any judgments from Corporate Purposes during 1930. This item alone represents $6,082,972.93 as of December 2, 1929.

Furthermore, the information gleaned as to when the 1928 and 1929 taxes will be collected indicates that the 1928 taxes will probably not be collected until July 1st, 1930, at the earliest; and that the 1929 taxes will probably not be collected until 1931.

Under these conditions, the Comptroller is recommending appropriations only for the payment of the deficiency of 1928 tax warrant interest. It is estimated that the total interest payable on 1928 and 1929 tax warrants and accrued interest on 1930 warrants that would have to be appropriated for during 1930 will amount to $7,208,769.12.

If at any time in the future more definite information as to when 1929 taxes will be collected can be secured, additional appropriations will possibly then have to be made.

The Council's attention is called to the fact that in the Department of Gas and Electricity for a number of years we have been appropriating large sums of money for current for street lighting, which, in the Comptroller's opinion, is a service that the taxpayer has already paid for in the form of taxation collected by the Sanitary District, and it is the Comptroller's belief that this taxing body should be required by the State Legislature to furnish electric current for street lighting purposes without charge, to the extent of the percentage of its total output of this commodity which is represented by the amount of taxes paid by the taxpayers of Chicago, in comparison with other communities. Under existing financial conditions, we believe that such action will make possible an item of economy for the Chicago taxpayer with very little harm to anyone. This is along the lines of thought created by the fact that in our Water Fund we are advised by the Commissioner of Public Works there is approximately $2,000,000 of free water service furnished to other taxing bodies for the benefit of the taxpayers of Chicago.

In concluding this rather lengthy statement with regard to the Corporate Purposes Fund of the City, the Comptroller desires to state definitely that even though he does no concur in all respects with the conclusions arrived at by the Joint Commission on Real Estate Valuations under Mr. Fairweather, as to the causes of the financial condition of the funds of the various taxing bodies, he is nevertheless firmly convinced that they are entirely correct with regard to their plan and recommendations for preventing a recurrence of the present conditions. The Comptroller believes that their remedy offered, when properly elaborated in detail, will undoubtedly solve this part of the problem, which in turn is thought to be the most important part.

Trusting that the various department heads will appreciate the fact that appropriations do not create the resources to meet them, and that such appropriations are merely authorizations to spend, and also the fact that such authorizations to spend must naturally be limited to the funds available to pay them, and that this policy, when definitely followed, is a good policy even though the laws of the State of Illinois do not require such action, I beg to remain,

Respectfully,

(Signed) George K. Schmidt,
Comptroller.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

In the Matter of the Designation of the Foreman-State National Bank and the Foreman-State Trust and Savings Bank as Depositaries of the City's Funds for 1930.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was, together with the memorandum transmitted therewith, referred to the Committee on Finance.

Department of Law,
Chicago, December 11, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—We are informed by the City Comptroller that he is about to present to your Honorable Body, for its consideration in accordance with the statute and ordinances relating thereto, the bids of the various banking institutions of the City for interest on moneys deposited with them if named as City depositaries for the year 1930. We have also received information to the effect that one of the leading institutions of this kind is about to change its name after putting in its bid under its present name. When similar situations have arisen in the past we have held that where there is merely a change in name but where the personnel of the officers of the bank is substantially the same as before, the new institution may be regarded as the depositary that has been accepted. We think that is a reasonable view of the law, and that it may be followed in the present instance.

The bank in question is the Foreman National Bank, which on or about the first of the year 1930 will change its name to Foreman-State National Bank. Since we have notice that the change is to be made the matter can be taken care of when the awards are made. We therefore recommend that when the award is made, if this bank is to be one of the depositaries, it should be made to "Foreman National Bank, hereafter to be known as Foreman-State National Bank". In like manner the award to the Foreman Trust and Savings Bank should be made to "Foreman Trust and Savings Bank, hereafter to be known as Foreman-State Trust and Savings Bank".

For your information we append the memorandum received from the Foreman National Bank which shows what the changes are to be.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Leon Hornstein,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Corporation Counsel.

MAYOR.

Veto.

Abolition of Public Markets.

Honorable William Hale Thompson, Mayor, submitted the following veto message:

Office of the Mayor}
Chicago, December 28, 1929.}

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—I return herewith, without my approval, an ordinance passed by Your Honorable Body on December 23, 1929, and appearing on page 1748 of the Journal of the Proceedings of the City Council of said date, repealing Article I, Article II and Article IIA of Chapter XLVIII of The Chicago Code of 1922 as amended.

I withhold my approval of the said ordinance because the ordinance as passed repeals not only those sections of the respective Articles creating the office of Superintendent of each of the three public markets of the City commonly known as West Randolph Street Market, Maxwell Street Market and South State Street Market, but it repeals all of the sections of the respective articles purporting to regulate the locations of stands on said markets and fees to be paid for the privilege of dealers selling their produce to the public at said public markets.

The Corporation Counsel reports to me that he has made an investigation of the approximate cost to the City of the maintenance of said market places during the years of 1928 and 1929, as well as the amount of revenue received by the City for the sale of space on said markets. The Corporation Counsel reports to me that during the year of 1928 the City received from the three public markets the sum of $15,532.85 in revenue, and that the total expense to the City for the management and regulation of the said markets during the year of 1928 was $4,598.74. The Corporation Counsel also reports to me that for eleven months during the year of 1929, ending November 30, 1929, the revenue received by the City from the said three public markets was $13,362.00, and the total cost for management and regulation of the said markets during eleven months of 1929 was $4,745.53.

In my opinion these public market places are not liabilities to the City, but, on the contrary, are not only self-sustaining but produce considerable revenue for the City in excess of the amount expended by the City, and I recommend that Your Honorable Body make provision in the Annual Appropriation Ordinance for the year of 1930 to continue the operation of these public markets during the coming year in the same manner as they have been operated and conducted since their establishment.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) Wm. Hale Thompson,
Mayor.

Annual Appropriation Bill for the Year 1930.

The Committee on Finance submitted the following report, which was, on motion of Alderman Clark, deferred and ordered published:

COMMITTEE ON FINANCE,
CHICAGO, December 30, 1929.

To the Honorable, the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Chicago, in the City Council Assembled:

GENTLEMEN—Your Committee on Finance submits herewith its estimates for the annual appropriation bill for the year 1930, and is pleased to report that the same is within the estimated revenue for 1930.

It is reliably reported that the City has suffered a decrease of $465,000,000.00 in taxable values for the year 1928 as compared with the year 1927. This reduction may also prevail during 1929 and 1930. The City, by this decrease in valuations, sustains a reduction in revenue of approximately $5,000,000.00 to $6,000,000.00 for each of the years 1928, 1929 and 1930.

The actual taxable values for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930 are not as yet known. The Committee, however, has been guided by unofficial reports concerning valuations, and the City Comptroller's estimates of miscellaneous revenues for 1930.

The City has received no cash on account of taxes for the year 1928 or the year 1929 and has been compelled to borrow the required amount of money to transact municipal business. Interest upon these loans has become a heavy burden upon the treasury. This interest requirement has been provided for in the appropriation bill as well as the amount necessary to provide for special assessment public benefits. These two items have been a large factor in the reduced allotments to other departmental requirements. However, these appropriations have been deemed necessary in order that the credit of the City may be maintained and its special assessment securities protected.

The appropriations required for interest and public benefits in 1930 are $3,785,469.77 in excess of that provided for 1929. This, and the loss of taxes, have necessitated an actual reduction of about $8,000,000.00 for departmental purposes in the 1930 appropriations as compared with the appropriations in 1929. The Committee has found it especially difficult to make reductions and has been compelled to reduce appropriations to the point where the municipal services for the protection of life, health and property are seriously curtailed. The estimated decreased revenue from taxes for the years 1928 and 1929 and the interest accruals on borrowed money have resulted in a deficit for these two years of approximately $13,500,000.00.

It is hoped that some method may be devised which will absorb the deficit accruing for the years 1928 and 1929 and also place the City on a sound financial basis. In order to accomplish this, it will be necessary for all citizens to work in harmony towards this end.

[Ordinance printed in Pamphlet No. 54.]

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) JOHN S. CLARK,
Chairman.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

Opinion Concerning the City's Right to Remove the "Market Street Stub".

The City Clerk presented the following communication and opinion, which were ordered published and placed on file:

LAW DEPARTMENT,
CHICAGO, January 2, 1930.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago.

GENTLEMEN—Enclosed herewith I am transmitting to your Honorable Body copy of an opinion that this department rendered to the Hon. Richard W. Wolfe, Commissioner of Public Works, on December 28, 1929, relative to the City's right to remove the elevated railroad structure on Market street from Lake street to Madison street, known as the "Market street stub."

Yours very truly,

(Signed) SAMUEL A. ETTELSON,
Corporation Counsel

December 28th, 1929.

Mr. Richard W. Wolfe, Commissioner of Public Works, City Hall, Chicago, Illinois:

DEAR SIR—In compliance with your request for a legal opinion on the City's right to remove the "Market Street stub,"—being the elevated railroad structure on Market street from Lake street to Madison street,—in addition to the opinion rendered by this Department on November 15, 1911, we submit the following:

On November 24, 1890 the City Council passed an ordinance granting to the Lake street Elevated Railway Company, its successors and assigns, permission and authority to build, construct and maintain an elevated structure and place thereon a double railway track on and along Lake street beginning at the west line of Canal street and extending westward on said Lake street to Crawford avenue, "and to use and operate upon the railroad tracks * * * to be constructed, locomotives or other engines or motors and cars which may be propelled by steam, electric or other species of power." Section 13 of the ordinance provides:

> "The privileges hereby granted are subject to all the general ordinances of the City of Chicago now in force or hereafter to be passed in reference to elevated railways."

The above grant was for a period of forty years and was duly accepted by the Lake Street Elevated Railway Company. Another ordinance was passed on the same date extending the elevated railroad line west to the city limits, and also from Canal to Market street.

On May 15, 1895, the City Council passed an ordinance granting to the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company permission and authority to construct, maintain and operate for a period of fifty years after the passage of the ordinance an elevated railroad and branches, as the company may from time to time determine it will be necessary upon certain routes described in the ordinance, among which are the following:

> "SECTION 1. (Second) Also a branch line beginning on the main line of road at Market and Lake streets, running thence in a southerly direction along Market street to the south line of Madison street; provided said line of road upon Market street shall not occupy with its posts more than twenty-two (22) feet of said street and such part of said street as may be designated by the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works, and acccepted by said Railroad Company, and no more than two main tracks shall be laid upon said Market street; and provided in leaving its main line of road upon Lake street it may make the necessary curves to build the line of road hereby authorized upon Market street.
> (Third) Also a line of road heretofore authorized to be built from the west line of Canal street to the city limits, thence extended east from said west line of Canal street to the east line of Market street, extended north, with the right and privilege to cross the viaduct and bridge on said line between Canal and Market streets."

SECTION 4 of this ordinance provides:

> "And the said Railroad Company may use and operate the railroad track or tracks hereby authorized to be constructed, with locomotives or other engines or motors, and cars, subject to all ordinances of said City of Chicago now in force or that may hereafter be passed applicable thereto."

This ordinance was amended on May 22, 1893, by providing, among other things:

> "Said Company shall not, by virtue of this ordinance construct, maintain or operate its line of road lengthwise in any street or avenue or part thereof except upon Lake street, from the west line of Canal street to the east line extended north of Market street, and upon Market street from the main line of its road upon Lake street to the south line of Madison street."

This ordinance as amended was also accepted by the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company.

The Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company had previously, to-wit, on August 30, 1892, acquired the property and also the ordinance rights of the Lake Street Elevated Railway Company granted to it by the said ordinance of November 24, 1890, for the construction and operation of an elevated railroad on Lake street west from Canal street to Crawford avenue.

It will be seen from the foregoing ordinances which became binding contracts between the City and the Elevated Railroad Company that it was the purpose and object of the contracts to establish an elevated railroad for the transportation of the travelling public by continuous passage from the western limits of the city to Market and Madison streets and vice versa.

On October 1, 1894, the City Council passed an ordinance granting to the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company permission to construct, maintain and operate for a period of fifty years from and after the passage of the ordinance an elevated railroad "connecting at the east line of Market street, extended north with the line of road now constructed and operated by said company on Lake street, thence extending east upon Lake street to the east line of Wabash avenue, subject, however, to the provisions hereinafter contained."

Section 4 of the ordinance, among other things, provides:

> "All trains operated by said company over its line of road, passing over the Lake street bridge eastwardly, shall at least alternately continue eastwardly over the line of road hereby authorized, and in case said company shall hereafter obtain the right to build or use a loop line for running its trains, then all its trains proceeding eastwardly over Lake street bridge shall continue to proceed eastwardly over the elevated railroad hereby authorized, and no trains of said company shall move eastwardly over the elevated railroad hereby authorized, between Wabash avenue and Market street, except such trains as have first proceeded eastwardly over the elevated railroad hereby authorized."

This ordinance was also accepted by the Elevated Railroad Company and thus became a new and binding contract between the City and the Elevated Railroad Company. The name of the Lake Street Elevated Company was about this time changed to "Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company."

It will be noted that under the provisions of this ordinance the Elevated Railroad Company, upon the construction of the elevated railroad in Lake street from the east line of Market street to the east line of Wabash avenue, was obligated to run at least each alternate east bound train to Wabash avenue instead of turning from Lake street into Market street and running thereon to Madison street; and it will be further noted that this contract ordinance further provided that after the construction of a loop and the use thereof by the Elevated Railroad Company "all its trains proceeding eastwardly over the Lake street bridge shall continue to proceed eastwardly over the elevated railroad hereby authorized."

The elevated structure and railroad known as the "Loop" was afterwards constructed by a corporation known as the Union Consolidated Elevated Railroad Company under an ordinance passed by the City Council on June 29, 1896, granting permission to said corporation to so construct the same, and by a contract between the Union Consolidated Elevated Railroad Company and the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company (Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company), the latter acquired the right and began to operate its trains on the Lake street line around the "Loop" in accordance with the requirement of the above contract ordinance passed on October 1, 1894.

It is clear that the City Council in granting to the Elevated Railroad Company permission to construct elevated structures in the public streets of the City did so for the sole purpose of affording transportation to the public upon and along such public streets. Indeed, it would be beyond the power and authority of the City Council to grant the use of a public street for the construction of elevated structures therein for any other purpose. The only element in the contract ordinance that excepted the elevated structures in the public streets from constituting a legal nuisance, and brought it within the power of the City Council to make a valid contract with the Elevated Railroad Company for the construction of such elevated structures, was the legitimate object of the contract to provide and facilitate a means of public travel upon such public streets.

It is elementary that when parties to a contract by their mutual agreement render impossible or impracticable the efficient performance of the essential object of the contract, the entire contract necessarily fails and becomes terminated.

By the ordinances of November 24, 1890, and of May 15, 1893, as amended May 22, 1893, the manifest object of the contract was to afford a means of transportation to the traveling public upon and along Lake street and Market street to its intersection with Madison street. With the construction of the loop elevated railroad structure a better and more effective means of transportation and public travel into and from the "downtown district" was afforded than under the ordinance providing for the construction of the so-called "Market street stub." When, in contemplation of this better means of travel, the City Council and the Elevated Railroad Company entered into a new and later contract on October 1, 1894, in which it was provided that when the Elevated Railroad Company should obtain the right to "use a loop line for running its trains," all trains on the Lake street line should use the "loop" in the transportation of the traveling public, the primary purpose and object for the further maintenance of the Market street elevated railroad ceased by mutual agreement of the parties. Under the terms of the contracts between the City and the Elevated Railroad Company the construction of these elevated structures in the public streets was merely the establishment of a means to an end, and when the further use of the elevated structure in Market street for the transportation of the traveling public ceased upon the construction of the "Loop" and the use thereof by all trains on the Lake street line, the elevated structure in Market street merely became useless obstruction in the public street, and under the law constituted a public nuisance. The legal status of this "Market street stub" having thus become established by the agreement of the parties as contained in the contract ordinance of October 1, 1894, and the obligation of the Elevated Railroad Company to operate all its trains around the "Loop," any act thereafter in the use of the "Market street stub" by the Elevated Railroad Company could not reinvest in the Elevated Railroad Company any legal right to such use and maintenance of such elevated structure in the absence of a new agreement to that effect between the City and the Elevated Railroad Company. That this was clearly recognized by the Elevated Railroad Company appears from an order of the City Council passed July 13, 1908 (Council Proceedings 1908-09, p. 1168) under which the Chicago & Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company secured from the City Council permission, as a temporary measure, to use the "Market street stub" as a terminal for the operation of five trains each day in addition to the regular quota of trains operated around the "Loop."

This order of the City Council expressly provided:

"It is expressly understood and agreed, however, and the acceptance by the railroad company of the privileges granted in this order shall be considered as an acceptance with the express understanding and agreement that the passage of this order shall not at any time or in any way or in any proceeding, whether at law or in equity, be considered or taken as a waiver by the City of Chicago of any right or rights whatsoever, or as a recognition of the validity of any of the ordinances of said railroad company or of any portion of any of said ordinances under and by virtue of which said Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company now claims to operate any line of railroad, either surface or elevated, in said City of Chicago, and that the grant of permission and authority herein contained is a mere temporary measure and made for the sole purpose of, and shall have the sole effect of, facilitating the transportation of patrons of said railroad company, and may be revoked, cancelled and annulled at any time in the discretion of the Mayor or City Council."

The above order thus granting temporary permission to operate not less than five additional trains daily on the "Market street stub" was repealed by an ordinance passed by the City Council on July 2, 1914, and all rights conferred upon the Chicago & Oak Park Railroad Company to so operate its trains on the "Market street stub" under said order of July 13, 1908, were declared terminated. (Council Proceedings 1914-15, p. 1200.)

It is thus seen from the foregoing order and ordinance that both the City Council and the Elevated Railroad Company recognized the fact that the right of the Elevated Railroad Company to the use and maintenance of the "Market street stub" in the operation of its railroad system as orginally granted by the ordinance of May 15, 1893, had become terminated. In order, however, that such termination of the right of the Elevated Railroad Company be formally declared as a matter of record the City Council on April 5, 1914, passed the following ordinance:

"Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Chicago:

SECTION 1. That the City of Chicago hereby elects and declares that all rights heretofore granted to the Lake Street Elevated Railroad Company, now known as the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, to occupy with its elevated tracks Market street from the south line of the present elevated railroad of said company in Lake street to the south line of Madison street forever cease and determine.

SECTION 2. The Corporation Counsel of the City of Chicago is hereby authorized and directed to take such action as he may deem fit and proper to enforce the foregoing section and to cause Chicago and Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to remove all of its elevated structure from that portion of Market street described in the foregoing section.

SECTION 3. This ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage and approval.

(Council Proceedings 1914-1915, p. 1440).

It is our opinion, therefore, that in view of the situation as we have above set forth, the maintenance of the structure known as the "Market street stub" is without legal right and constitutes a public nuisance in the street, and as such may be removed in proper legal proceedings by the City.

In this connection we call your attention to an ordinance passed by the City Council on the 29th day of June, 1922. At that time the City was engaged in the widening of Market street and the existing structure of the Elevated Railroad Company in Market street interfered with such work. The ordinance required the Chicago & Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company to "re-arrange the columns supporting its elevated structure located in North Market street * * * including the intersection with West Lake street, between the extended street lines of said North Market street, (all of such structures being located between the north line of West Lake street, extending from the east, and the north curb line of West Randolph street), * * * and re-locate the stairway now located on the north side of West Randolph street in such a manner as not to obstruct the roadway of said North Market street, as widened and improved, and make such other changes in and additions to the stairways, platform and buildings at the said location as it may deem necessary, or at its discretion may remove said station, platform and stairways altogether, and discontinue and abandon said station." (Council Proceedings 1922-23, p. 704.)

The ordinance further provided that in the event the Chicago & Oak Park Elevated Railroad Company did not do the work and make the changes required by the ordinance within a certain time, the Board of Local Improvements should do the work "at the expense of the company."

Apparently recognizing that its rights to the maintenance of said elevated structure had become terminated, the Elevated Railroad Company did not comply with said ordinance and did not make the required changes and relocations in the elevated structure, and the City was, therefore, required to make such changes and re-locations in order to complete the widening of Market street and improvement of Wacker drive. There were also other changes and re-locations of parts of elevated railroad structures required by other ordinances in other streets to be made by the Elevated Railroad Company which the City was obliged to make, and the then Corporation Counsel (Francis X. Busch) brought suit to recover such expenditures from the Elevated Railroad Company, in which he included the expenditures made in changing and re-locating parts of the elevated structure in Market street; and also instituted mandamus proceedings against the Elevated Railroad Company to compel the making of changes and re-locations in its elevated structures in certain streets including those that became necessary in Market street. These suits are now pending in the courts and we believe you should call the attention of the City Council to these pending suits and ask the City Council whether it desires to eliminate from such suits all claims with reference to the "Market street stub."

We believe that there is slight chance, if any, of recovering for expenditures made by the City on account of changes and re-locations in the elevated structure in Market street or to compel the making of any changes or re-locations therein by the Elevated Railroad Company.

In as much as the "Market street stub" is now a public nuisance in a public street and is maintained in such street without legal right or authority, it may well be doubted that a recovery may be had by the City against the Elevated Railroad Company, for the money expended by the City in making changes in the nuisance necessary to accomplish the street improvement. This may be the defense contemplated by the Elevated Railroad Company in such pending suits. In order to successfully recover for such expenditures made by the City and to compel the Elevated Railroad Company to make changes and re-locations in the "Market street stub," and if any such are still to be made, we believe that the City Council would be required to restore the Elevated Railroad Company's rights in the "Market street stub" by an ordinance, duly accepted by the Elevated Railroad Company.

We believe this situation should be presented to the City Council by you in response to their recent order that you take steps for the removal of the "Market street stub."

Very truly yours,

(Signed) EDWARD C. HIGGINS,

Proposed Elimination of the Requirement for the Separate Licensing of Merchandise Brokers.

The City Clerk presented the following communication, which was, together with the ordinance submitted therewith, referred to the Committee on Finance:

Department of Law,
Chicago, December 30, 1929.

To the Honorable, the City Council of the City of Chicago:

Gentlemen—We submit herewith draft of an ordinance repealing Sections 391, 392, 393 and 394 of The Chicago Municipal Code of 1922, for which we ask the consideration of your honorable body.

The sections numbered as above provide for the licensing of merchandise brokers. Originally the code provided these licenses for "merchandise brokers and manufacturers' agents," and included within its scope persons who sold goods on commission as agents of manufacturers. A case was instituted on behalf of certain manufacturers' agents in which an injunction was applied for and obtained. (See Linehan vs. City of Chicago, 227 Ill. App. 255.) Thereupon the ordinance was changed so as to eliminate manufacturers' agents, but the license fee for merchandise brokers was retained. We are now informed by the Department of License that all persons, firms and corporations to whom the license provisions apply are now licensed as brokers under the general brokers' license ordinance. Hence, the separate provision for merchandise brokers is not necessary, serves no useful purpose, and only creates confusion. We find that many persons object to paying the license fee believing that they are being licensed twice. It will, therefore, be better to wipe out the sections referred to, since they no longer serve any useful purpose, and we recommend that the repealing ordinance submitted herewith be passed.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Leon Hornstein,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.
